DEATH NOTE IN AUTO PLOT

GIBBONS BRINGS PLEA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Cardinal Gibbons brought a message to President Wilson today from Pope Benedict, suggesting an organized attempt by neutral nations to bring about peace in Europe. The Cardinal communicated the message to the President, who received it with gratification. Later the Cardinal saw Secretary Lansing and discussed with him the message of the Pope.

The conference between the Cardinal and the President lasted only ten minutes. At its conclusion the Cardinal went directly to the State Department. When he was leaving the White House he said:

"All that I can say at this time is that I discussed the question of trying to arrange peace between the warring nations of Europe.

"Because of the nature of this discussion it is impossible for me to give any details at this time. It is that His Holiness gave me a message to be delivered to the President.

"The nature of that message, as everything that took place in this conference, must remain secret for the present.

"I expressed deep gratification to the President because of the happy ending of the difficulties with Germany. I look upon that as a happy outcome of what was an extremely dangerous situation."

It was understood that the Pope's suggestion dealt with the advisability of securing concerted action by the Vatican and the various neutral nations to offer mediation to end the war.

Denial was made that any of the belligerents have yet been consulted. The position of the Vatican, it is understood, is that the war at the present time has resolved itself into a stalemate and that none of the belligerents can win a decisive victory. In order to prevent the useless slaughter of more millions of men the Pope believes the time has arrived for the neutrals to endeavor to arrange a compromise.

Today's message from the Pope is understood to be preliminary to a general feeling out of all neutrals.

The message which the cardinal brought to the President today is understood to have been in his possession for some time, and it has been left to his discretion to decide just when to present it.

There was no doubt of the cardinal's earnest belief that if the President would support the Pope in a proffer of mediation that it would be acceptable. He is known to believe that economic as well as humanitarian reasons make this the time for strong action.

"I will enter no defence whatever," she said. "That is just what I have wanted for years, and I will be glad when it's over with."

When asked if she expected to receive any money from the Thaw family in the future, Mrs. Thaw replied:

"I don't want Harry Thaw or his money, but I do want to be left alone to work out my own salvation. The Thaws have been the bane of my life and I'll never have any luck until I'm separated from them."

Bridgeport Concern in Financial Wreck

King, by which scores of people have been victimized through various methods of about $50,000, have extended over a period of more than ten years was learned today. ## Gets Suicide Note, Finds Woman Dead

Mrs. Susan Waldron, forty-five years old, was found dead with a tube leading from the gas jet to her mouth in her room at No. 1 Hawley square today by a friend, Mrs. S. F. Lewis of No. 8 Maple place. The discovery followed the receipt by Mrs. Lewis of a note from Mrs. Waldron in which the writer announced that she intended to commit suicide.

FOSS-FITZ DUEL IS ON

At the moment of going to press, Foss and Fitz were still at it. Fitz was giving Foss fits, and Foss was giving Fitz fits.

Former Governor Eugene N. Foss stepped in his whirlwind tour through Essex County long enough to slam Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald for his alleged efforts to get liquor licenses for members of the Fitzgerald family. Foss says Fitz tried to horn in during the three Foss administrations at the State House as a "volunteer Governor of the Commonwealth."

The former Mayor and the former Governor will meet sooner or later in the courts and thresh it all out—possibly, maybe, perhaps, and then again—in a suit for libel.

Fitz fired today's sunrise gun by calling Foss "a faker and a mountebank," and branding the former Governor's present activity for Prohibition as, to say the least, insincere.

SAYS FOSS DIDN'T WAIT.

At the close of a Democratic rally in Attleboro, Fitz says, Foss didn't wait for a glass but hoisted a bottle of beer to his head and emptied it at

Holland-American Liner Rotterdam Reported Ablaze

By International News Service.

MRS. MOHR'S NOTE IN WHICH GIRL WAS THREATENED

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 2.—The following letter, now in possession of the police, was sent by Mrs. Mohr a few days prior to the murder of her husband to George Rooks, brother-in-law of Miss Burger:

Dear Mr. Rooks:

Just a line to ask you to tell your sister-in-law, Emily Burger, if she dares to go into my Newport home she will never come out alive. I am giving her fair warning.

No matter what the outcome may be, I will see it through.

I was told about her buying linen at Gladdings for Dr. Mohr. I do hope you will try and straighten matters, and I know you can't stop her from going out to dinner with him, but she will have a sad ending if she keeps on aggravating me.

My home is being watched, and if I should leave Newport this summer my home will be watched just the same, and should I get word I shall come right on.

The world is with me in my sorrow. I am heart-broken.

Respectfully,

ELIZABETH T. MOHR.

ALLIES SINK FIVE TRANSPORTS OF TURKS

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The French War Office announced today that five Turkish transports had been sunk by the allies at the Dardenelles, one having been destroyed by a French aviator and four having been torpedoed by British submarines. The official statement gives no information as to the loss of life on the Ottoman vessels.

The official report follows:

"At the Dardanelles the last week of August was in general very calm on the south front. In the North Zone British troops fought some successful engagements, which had put into their possession a hill to the west of Biyuk-Anafarta, which had been sharply disputed.

"A transport was sunk on Aug. 29 by one of our aeroplanes at Ak-anchorage of Achashliman. It should be added that four were torpedoed by the British submarines, two at the same spot and two others between Gallipoli and Nagara.

"The guns of the warships struck many navy vessels anchored in the straits."

His case now comes before the parole board, which will determine whether to return him to prison for violating the terms of his parole or have him examined as to his sanity.

Hill, who has charge of the Bertillion system. Hill at once identified him. The record was placed before the judge, who sent Silva away for six months.

GRODNO'S OUTER DEFENCES FALL TO TEUTONS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—German troops have captured the outer line of forts defending Grodno, the General Staff reported today.

Czarnoko, a fortified town on the Vilna-Grodno railway, has been taken by storm. This cuts off the retreat of the Russians left to defend Grodno when the main Russian armies retreated.

Military experts in Berlin regard this sudden shift of Von Mackensen's forces as confirmation of their theory that the chief objective of the German armies is Southern Russia, where the campaign can be carried on much longer than in the North.

The capture of Lutsk they assert will be followed by the fall of Rovno and Dubno, possession of which will give the Teutonic allies control of the two main railways running into Russia.

It is believed here that Grodno will be in German hands soon, giving them complete possession of every fortress on the first and second line of Russian defence and making their victory complete.

Field Marshal von Mackensen has won another victory, rolling back the Russians and crossing the entire front in the Malchewiez section. In the southeastern theatre the Germans took 1,000 prisoners in Wednesday's fighting.

The forces proceeding through the Bialowieska forest have occupied the Swislocz and Makarowce crossings, as well as that of the Jasiolda. At the last named point 1,000 prisoners were taken.

For the first time in many days the official report claims successes in the west, stating that the trenches lost in the Vosges from August 15 to August 29 have been recaptured.

In battles that occurred Wednesday, including the conflict at Grodno, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army captured 2,070 men.

RUSSIA DENIES FORCE IN GALICIA 'HAS BEEN CUT OFF

PETROGRAD, Sept. 2.—Efforts of the Austro-German forces to cut off the Russian wing in Galicia from the main army of Grand Duke Nicholas have completely failed, the war office announced today.

The Teutonic troops suffered heavy losses in the region between the Zlota Lipa and Strypa before the Russians retired. One entire regiment was caught between batteries and completely annihilated, according to the official reports received here.

General Alexiev, who defeated General von Buelow recently on the Baltic front, was appointed chief of the Russian general staff today. He succeeds General Yanushevic, who has been appointed assistant viceroy of the Caucasus.

This change is the first move in a great shake-up that Grand Duke Nicholas will give his commanding officers.

HAMMOND SEES MANY FAULTS IN U. S. NAVY

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A comprehensive and scathing criticism of the United States navy is contained in the report, issued today, of John Hays Hammond, Jr., who represented the conference committee on National Preparedness at the Governors' conference in Boston.

The report in its main criticisms was outlined in an interview given out by Mr. Hammond at the time of the Boston review. American warships he says, are half-manned and half-officered and the speed of the best of them is not a match for that of vessels of similar classification in European waters.

The speed of the cruiser he declares less than that of the Blucher, which was lost in it battle of the North Sea, because she was so slow. The report concludes:

"We should have 21 battleships to protect our Atlantic coast; we have only 17 ships in commission. Four are useless to the nation, as there are not enough men even to run them.

"With every resource tapped, we are 26,000 men short in our navy. We have 1,900 officers of the line; we must have 1,400 more. It takes four years to train a sailor, but ten years to make a well trained officer.

"The organization of the navy is the root of its inadequacy. It must have a governing staff to formulate a consistent policy of naval development. A step toward this end has been made in the appointment of Admiral Benson as chief of operations. The mere appropriation of money, no matter how stupendous the sum, will not give us the navy we need. Appropriations will be misappropriations until the Navy is properly organized. The proper number in personnel will only come with proper national interest in our fleet. Its present condition is primarily the fault of the people and not of any Legislature or of the branch of government.

Three Killed, Five Hurt in Auto Plunge

LEROY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A girl and two young men were killed and five others injured early today when their automobile skidded from the road near Mumford and rolled down an embankment.

CHARGE WOMAN BID $5000 TO HAVE HUSBAND KILLED

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Elizabeth Blair Mohr was taken from her home here early today by the police and was later held in Warren District Court for a continued hearing on September 16 on a charge of "hiring, aiding, assisting and abetting" in the murder of her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, the rich Providence and Newport surgeon, from whom she was estranged, and who was fatally shot in his automobile in West Barrington Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mohr's arrest was based on the confession of three colored men who were arrested and held with her on charges ranging from murder, attempt to murder and being accessory.

One of the colored men in particular told the police flatly that Mrs. Mohr promised to pay a total of $5,000 if Dr. Mohr was killed, that she could "not stand this any longer," and that she would protect them from the police.

Mrs. Mohr denied the charges, scorned the confessions and pleaded not guilty.

But the police say that she had made threats against her husband and against Miss Emily Burger, who was wounded at the same time the doctor received a fatal bullet.

Miss Burger was Dr. Mohr's secretary. The police gave out today a letter which they say that Mrs. Mohr wrote to George Rooks, Miss Burger's brother-in-law, saying that, if Miss Burger

Free Gum for All, but Police Solve Mystery

Rowe's Wharf had a regular mystery today. It was solved. Patrolman "Dan" Laningham, crossing officer, who greets thousands of beach patrons every morning, calls it "The Great Gum Chewing Mystery."

He arrested Anthony Leone, fourteen, of Salem street, North End, as a delinquent child and on the charge of lifting chewing gum worth $10 from slot machines on the wharf.

Down at the end of the wharf he found Anthony with some discs using them as pennies in the machines. He had relieved two or three machines and was treating the crowds as they poured from the boats.

Ten dollars' worth of gum means 1,000 pieces.

WIFE OF DOCTOR MOHR IS ACCUSED OF PLOTTING DEATH OF HER HUSBAND, SHOT IN AUTO

Arrest of Widow Is Sensational Climax in the Providence Tragedy.

dared to go into the Mohr's $50,000 Newport villa, she would never come out alive.

The three men held today with Mrs. Mohr are:

George W. Healis, Dr. Mohr's chauffeur, who was charged with accessory before and after the murder of Dr. Mohr; Cecil Victor Brown of Providence and Boston, a discharged chauffeur of Dr. Mohr, who was charged with attempt to murder Miss Burger. These three pleaded not guilty and were held without bail until September 16.

WOMAN ARRAIGNED.

The arraignment took place in Warren District Court because that court has jurisdiction over West Barrington, where the shooting took place. Mrs. Mohr was brought back to this city by Sheriff Philo B. Cady for a conference before Judge John P. Brown of the Superior Court regarding bail.

When confronted by the triple confession of Healis, Brown and Spellman when first brought to headquarters at dawn Mrs. Mohr said: "It isn't so." Then she accused Brown of having threatened to her to get square with Mohr for holding out $30 wages on him.

The letter which the police say Mrs. Mohr sent to George Rooks, threatening Miss Burger, is given out by the police as follows:

Dear Mr. Rooks:

Just a line to ask you to tell your sister-in-law, Emily Burger, if she dares to go into my Newport home she will never come out alive. I am giving her fair warning, no matter what the outcome may be, I will see it through. I was told about her buying linen at Gladdings for Dr. Mohr. I do hope you will try and a raighten matters, and I know you can't stop her from going out to dinner with him, but she will have a sad ending if she keeps on aggravating me.

My home is being watched, and if I should leave Newport this Summer my home will be watched just the same, and should I get word I shall come right on.

The world is with me in my sorrow. I am heart-broken.

Respectfully,

ELIZABETH T. MOHR.

Healis told the police Mrs. Mohr offered him $2,000 to kill the doctor's auto wherever Brown told him. He put up a robbery story. But Brown said, the police declare, that Mrs. Mohr offered him $2,000 to kill the doctor, while Spellman said, according to the police, that Brown offered him $1,000 to aid in the killing.

The police lay stress, too, on the point, claimed by them, that Mrs. Mohr telephoned Chief Inspector O'Neil at midnight, asking if she was implicated in the case, also that a mysterious woman telephoned three warnings to Miss Florence Ormsby, Dr. Mohr's office maid, not to accompany him and Miss Burger auto riding Tuesday night.

The police say that this "telephone woman" even called at Dr. Mohr's office and told Miss Ormsby that Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger would be dead before Sept. 1. The police said, after Mrs. Mohr's arrest, that she is the mysterious "telephone woman."

DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

The arrest of Mrs. Mohr came as a dramatic climax to a sequence of sensational developments through the night, as the police arrested the colored men in one-two-three order, assembled their several confessions and then made straight for the accused widow.

The schedule of events leading up to the arrest of the widow may be summarized thus:

George W. Healis, the doctor's chauffeur, who was arrested when he brought the dying physician and the wounded Miss Burger to the hospital Tuesday night, first admitted last night that he had arranged with C. Victor Brown, the doctor's discharged chauffeur, to stall the Mohr car on Nayatt road Tuesday evening for robbery.

Brown was arrested at 2 a. m. today. He confessed, accusing Mrs. Mohr of offering him $2,000 to kill Dr. Mohr.

Then Healis confessed further, accusing Mrs. Mohr of offering him $2,000 if he would stall the car where Brown told him to.

Henry Spellman, Brown's half-brother, was arrested at 4:30 a. m. He made a statement that Brown offered him $1,000 if he would help in the killing, that he fired three shots at Miss Burger and that Brown fired two shots at Dr. Mohr.

At 5:30 the three colored men began formal statements to Chief Inspector William F. O'Neil in the presence of Police Commissioner Benjamin P. Moulton, Inspector Chief Inspector William F. O'Neil of the Providence police, who had charge of the investigation of the Mohr killing, and to whom the accused men made their confessions.

James A'Hearn and Detective Captain George F. Monahan of this city and Chief Thomas E. Robbins and Constable James Wallace of Barrington.

These confessions being signed, Inspector A'Hearn was dispatched in a taxicab to Mrs. Mohr's home at the residence of A. E. Barney, No. 1 Reservoir avenue. This is just around the corner and in sight of Dr. Mohr's residence, where Mrs. Mohr formerly lived with him, at No. 582 Elmwood avenue.

A'Hearn rang and asked for Mrs. Mohr. She came down in negligee.

"They want to see you at headquarters," said A'Hearn.

"I'll come right away, as soon as I'm dressed," said the widow. She went upstairs and in less than twenty minutes came down, entered the taxi and was taken to headquarters. There A'Hearn turned her over to Chief Inspector O'Neil. She was taken into the chief inspector's private office.

As she stepped through the door she confronted the three colored men and the group of police officers. She gazed at them silently. Offered a chair, she seated herself. She seemed nervous.

Chief Inspector O'Neil picked up the confession papers, began reading them, beginning with that of Healis. Reading to the end, the chief inspector turned to Healis and asked:

"Is that the truth?"

"Yes," said Healis.

O'Neil next read Brown's confession, asking at the close:

"Is that the truth?"

"Yes," said Brown.

The same reading and same reply followed on Spellman's statement. Then O'Neil stopped. Nobody spoke. But all, as though moved by one controlling string, turned their eyes upon the accused woman.

Mrs. Mohr—a tall, comely brunette—ejaculated:

"It isn't so!"

Then she looked at Brown—whose confession accused her of procuring the murder of her husband—and said:

"You know that you came up to my house and said that you were going to get square with the doctor because he did not pay you what he owed you. I told you not to be foolish."

Brown made no reply. Nobody else spoke a word. O'Neil ushered Mrs. Mohr into a side room for questioning. There she told O'Neil substantially what she had said to Brown in the other room. She declared that Brown came to her house two or three times, complaining that Dr. Mohr owed him $20 balance, and threatening that he was going to get square with the doctor.

Attorney Barred.

Finally O'Neil sent for the headquarters matron and gave her charge of Mrs. Mohr. Meanwhile the colored trio had been taken to the photographing room to be "mugged," as the common police term is.

At 6:50 William Carroll, attorney, came hurriedly to headquarters. He found O'Neil, and asked:

"Any objection to my representing my client?"

O'Neil: "Yes, at this time."

Carroll: "Can't I go in and represent her?"

O'Neil: "Ever hear of such a thing at this time? You can see her at the proper time."

It was Inspector O'Neil who confronted Mrs. Mohr with the confessions and who subjected her to a searching questioning.

The confessions of Healis and Brown and the statement of Spellman formed a terrible arraignment of Mrs. Mohr.

Spellman said in his statement that he was a half-brother of Brown and that, when he was approached by Brown, he was promised $1,000 for his share in the slaying.

He said that he fired three shots at Miss Burger, Dr. Mohr's secretary, and that Brown fired two shots.

The autopsy showed that two bullets hit Dr. Mohr, one of them killing him, and that two bullets hit Miss Burger. A fifth bullet was found imbedded in a side of the automobile.

The signed confession of Victor Brown was as follows:

I, Cecil Victor Brown, twenty-seven years old of No. 39 Hammond street, Boston, Mass., saw Elizabeth F. Mohr, Monday night between 8 and 9 p. m. August 30, 1915. She sent for me and told me to prepare to kill Dr. Mohr, because she could not stand this any longer.

I did not want to do it. Then she says there is something in it for you. I will put you in the garage business, don't be afraid as I stand in with all of the detectives and chief down in Newport and the judges in Providence.

She says if we got in any trouble she would spend her last dollar to get us out of it and be sure and tell George to come over so as she could have a good talk with him. After nine days she would have everything settled that is her part of the estate.

She also said she did not know if his other two children belonging to his first wife would come in for their share and she would pay me $2,000 and also pay George $2,000 and Henry $1,000 and if she had enough left she would give me $500 more.

There is no need of being scared, everything will blow over. This is something that has got to be done. She made me ride to Boston on a train leaving Providence at 7:40 p. m. to purchase a revolver in a pawnshop on Beach street, Boston, Mass., about three months ago, which I paid six dollars for, thirty-eight calibre.

Mrs. Mohr said get a good one. If we did not kill him she was going to do it herself. She paid $100 for the motorcycle I own, in May, this year.

(Signed) CECIL VICTOR BROWN

Healis said in his confession:

Mrs. Mohr sent for me Tuesday night, August 31. She told me that if I would stop where Victor Brown told me she would give me $2,000.

GEORGE W. HEALIS.

The police now disloze the fact that the woman they had referred to as the woman in black that had been known all along to them as Mrs. Mohr. The fact was also made known that it was Mrs. Mohr who called up Chief Inspector O'Neil at midnight and asked if she was implicated.

Victor Brown was arrested early today.

His arrest was the result of the statement secured from Healis in which he claimed that he and Brown met in Broad street, Monday night, and planned to rob Dr. Mohr. According to this plot, Healis was merely to stall the automobile in which he was driving the doctor and Miss Burger. Brown, Healis claims, was to do the robbing.

He also told the police that he stopped the automobile, as planned, after signalling by switching off the headlights of the auto.

That the investigations of the police extended beyond Brown, who was implicated in the "robbery ambush" story told by Healis, was disclosed first by the interest taken in the story told by Miss Florence Ormsby, office maid of Dr. Mohr.

Miss Ormsby, accompanied by an attorney, James Crane, an office associate of Dr. Mohr's attorney, called at police headquarters and was closeted with Chief Inspector O'Neil for nearly an hour.

She said that three different times in the last week she had been called to the telephone, while at work in the doctor's office, and warned by a woman's voice, which she claimes to have recognized, not to make the trip Tuesday night with Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger or she might be shot.

Miss Ormsby told Inspector O'Neil, also, that in addition to these telephone warnings she received a visit at the doctor's office from the "woman in black" in person. The warning was repeated she said. She declares also that this mysterious woman stated that both Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger would be dead before September first.

HUGHES PRAISES YANKEES IN GREAT WAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Right Honorable Sir Robert L. Borden, premier of Canada, and Major-General Samuel Hughes, Canadian Minister of Militia, who arrived here today on the White Star liner Adriatic from Liverpool, expressed the opinion that the war in Europe will not come to an end for many months.

Major-General Hughes paid a high tribute to the Americans who are fighting in the British army.

"My hat is off to the Yankees who are fighting in our ranks," he said, removing his panama. "Talk of soldiers, sir. By God, they are soldiers. One of 'em's worth two Germans any day. The soldiers from this continent are the greatest in the world. We are proud of our Yankees. They are real fighters."

ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR ALL PAIN

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. F. Gordon, "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain and disease by means of any preparation, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often applies to us for, i. e. something to relieve this pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is more apt to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is Anti-kamnia Tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable in headaches of malarial origin, where quinine was being taken. They appear to prevent the bad after-effects of the quinine. Anti-kamnia Tablets are also excellent for the headaches from improper digestion; also for headaches of neuralgic origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Anti-kamnia Tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. They are 10c. Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

Expect Wilson to Be Candidate for 1916 Nomination

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Indications are that President Wilson's closest friends expect him to be renominated in 1916 and are laying their plans accordingly.

The President himself, it was said authoritatively, however, is taking no part in such plans.

Gratification felt by the President over the action of Democrats in the Tenth Congressional District of Wisconsin in indorsing his Administration, has been expressed in a letter from Secretary Tumulty.

WOMAN KILLED, MAN DYING, FROM GAS

BROCKTON, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Bertilda Dufresne was found dead from gas poisoning, and her husband, Joseph, unconscious in bed, in their room at the home of Mrs. Mabel Montagne, at No. 56 West Elm street, today. A palmotor was used on Dufresne, but he is not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Dufresne keep a grocery store at Holyoke. They came here a week ago to visit their daughter, Mrs. Montagne. The windows of their room were found closed and it is supposed the gas was either blown out or turned on by accident. Medical Examiner Paine said there was no evidence of suicide.

All Miners Again at Work in Wales

CARDIFF, Wales, Sept. 2.—Reports received by the Miners' Federation state that all the strikers in South Wales and Monmouthshire returned to work today.

TESTIMONIAL WAS GIVEN BY ABBOTT

Roxbury Man Says It Is True and from His Own Personal Experience.

"The harm worked by the taking into the human system of minerals, opiates or other poisons is simply incalculable," said the Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett Drug Store. "The natural vegetable medicines are constructive in their action, soothing inflamed tissues, strengthening weak parts, toning up sluggish organs and gently stimulating them to normal vigor and activity. They build up the health of the whole body. The others act by substitution. They practically all have violent, irritating and poisonous properties, and in place of the natural action of the organ, they goad it to a violent reaction, which leaves it inflamed and exhausted and less able than ever to do its proper work. The next time it will depend on the drug, and so a habit is quickly formed. Thousands of people are daily building up their strength, happiness and usefulness by the use of the new herbal system tonic, Plant Juice. Nature's own peerless tonic. Not a day passes but what statements are received from local people, telling of the benefits they have received from the use of Plant Juice."

"For my own personal experience, I have no hesitation in saying that I consider Plant Juice an absolutely safe remedy and cure for indigestion and the consequent liver, kidney and bowel troubles. I have used many of the best-known remedies for these troubles, with very unsatisfactory results. Seeing your advertisement I thought I would get a Plant Juice a trial, though with but little faith. I am more than pleased to say that, with the first dose, it helped me from the very start, gave me an appetite, made me sleep as I had not slept for years, and after taking one bottle I felt like a new man. I am now taking my fourth bottle.

"Such words as these and those of many other that have been printed, have a wide influence, for they come from men of standing and integrity, who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been benefited.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

SETTLEMENT IN ARABIC AND LUSITANIA CASES NOW SURE

Official confirmation of the exclusive announcements and articles published by the Boston AMERICAN on August 27 and 31 came from Washington today.

Germany has notified the United States officially that she will conduct her submarine warfare in accordance with the principles of international law as construed and laid down in the United States government's notes to Germany.

This concession practically ends the German-American crisis.

The notification was made to the State Department in writing by the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Settlement of the Arabic incident will be expedited, Ambassador von Bernstorff has cabled his home government suggesting an immediate disavowal if the submarine believed responsible has not reported. It is expected that this action will be taken.

As soon as the disavowal is ordered, Ambassador von Bernstorff will take up with Secretary Lansing the final adjustment, both of that case and the Lusitania. The question of damages will be settled diplomatically unless a hitch should arise over the amounts that are to be paid. In that case it is believed an arbitration commission easily can be made.

It was expected that the United States would accept formally the German statement that hereafter liners will not be sunk without warning and will then ask whether that action is to apply to all ocean-going craft.

Some officials here believe that Germany has decided to curb entirely her submarine warfare against merchant ships because of the heavy losses recently sustained. It is known that for the last six weeks the British patrol boats have proven unusually effective against German submarines, and naval officials especially declare that the losses were too heavy when compared with the results attained.

Ambassador von Bernstorff said this morning that he had made no engagement with Secretary Lansing, and so far as he knew at the time did not expect to see him today. The Ambassador was cheerful and indicated that he considered the entire matter settled.

The Ambassador's letter to Secretary Lansing, in which the new policy of the Government is announced, read:

My dear Mr. Secretary:

With reference to our conversation of this morning, I beg to inform you that my instructions concerning our answer to your last Lusitania note contains the following passages:

"Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of non-combatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."

Although I know that you do not wish to discuss the Lusitania question till the Arabic incident has been definitely and satisfactorily settled, I desire to inform you of the above, because this policy of my government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred.

I have no objection to your making any use you may please of the above information.

I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing,

Very truly yours,

J. BERNSTORFF.

Count von Bernstorff's letter was immediately forwarded to President Wilson. No formal comment was made at the White House, but gratification was evident that Germany had acknowledged the justice of the American principle.

Grenades Used in Battle at Souchez

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Artillery duels and conflicts with grenades and petards formed the chief feature of fighting during the night, according to today's communique from the War Office. The text of the war bulletin follows:

"There was reported in the course of the night only some conflicts with grenades around Souchez, some artillery duels in the sector of Neuville and the region of Roye and the Vosges and a fight with petards at Schratzmaennelle."

Says Aurora Class Cruiser Was Sunk

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—The Admiralty announced today that the British cruiser sunk by German torpedo boats in the sea battle of August 17 was of the Aurora class (5,600 tons), and that the ship sank within four minutes after it had been struck. The official statement reiterated the claim that a British destroyer was also sunk. It said that the British forces were taken by surprise off Horn's Reef lightship.

Guard the Body of General Orozco in El Paso Morgue

By JOHN W. ROBERTS,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 2.—While American soldiers kept guard today the bodies of General Pascual Orozco and four companions, who were killed by an American posse, lay in a morgue at El Paso, Texas, awaiting burial. As the bodies reached El Paso last night, soldiers made a round-up of suspicious Mexicans, taking sixteen into custody. They will be held until after the funeral.

American cavalry dashed away from Brownsville, Texas, shortly before daylight in response to a call for help flashed by the telegraph operator at San Benito, a station east of Brownsville, 22 miles northwest of the town.

In his message the operator said that Mexican bandits had cut the telephone wires on both sides of San Benito and had fired several railroad trestles.

London Thinks Von Tirpitz Is To Be Retired

By International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—That the elimination of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz as a power in the German government is foreshadowed by the news that he is to take an extended "vacation" is the general belief in London today.

The impression here is that the orders sent to Ambassador von Bernstorff to placate the United States come direct from Emperor William and that the Kaiser was angered by the attitude of the originator of submarine warfare against merchantshipping.

The reason assigned for Von Tirpitz taking a "vacation" at this time is that he is ill from overwork. It is recalled that the same reason was assigned for the vacation taken by Field Marshal von Moltke when the Kaiser became dissatisfied with his conduct of field operations. It is also known that Von Tirpitz was not too ill to prosecute from Berlin to the German headquarters in the eastern war theatre and oppose the recommendations made by Chancellor von Bethman-Hollweg as to accepting the demands made by the American government.

The first impression in England was that Count von Bernstorff's acceptance of the American principles was with reserve, but the virtual retirement of Von Tirpitz has changed much of the opinion that existed here, and was openly voiced by the morning newspapers.

BRITISH NOTE TO PUT U. S. CASE STRONGLY

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The demand of the United States that Great Britain and her allies obey the law in connection with their enforcement of any blockade is having the finishing touches placed upon it President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have united to make the note attack proof. It was not known today just when it would be sent, but Secretary Lansing said he was hopeful it would not be long delayed.

The note opens with the direct statement that the United States insists upon the rights of American citizens under the "Principles and rules of international law as hitherto established governing neutral trade in time of war." It then rejects the rules of the British prize courts which place the burden of proof on the shipper and not on the British government. It also characterizes as "contrary to existing treaty obligations" the interference by British warships with the trade of the United States and the neutral countries adjoining Germany.

It is denied specifically that the so-called blockade conforms to the spirit and essential rules of war, and the interpretation placed by Sir Edward Grey on this government's position as communicated to Ambassador Page on June 24 is declared to be entirely erroneous.

The Civil War citations made at the same time are rejected on the broad ground that they applied entirely to specific cases, which have no parallel in the present negotiations. Great Britain herself, in the operations which resulted in the preparation of the Declaration of London and in The Hague convention, fought to have the international law dealing with maritime affairs restated so that some of the very things she now relies on to uphold her position should be specifically rejected, and the United States cites the position taken by the British government to sustain the present protest.

President Wilson is hopeful that England will see the necessity of accepting the position of the United States. It already has made clear to the British Ambassador that early action is a necessity. The President realizes that unless an arrangement can be reached with England prior to the assembling of Congress in December, the pressure for summary action to compel the recognition of neutral rights on the high seas will be very hard to combat.

LONDON QUESTIONS GERMAN SINCERITY IN YIELDING TO U. S.

By the International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Germany's surrender to the United States on the policy of submarine warfare is declared a "move prompted by expediency" by the Evening Standard. The Pall Mall Gazette sees in the German move a "manoeuvre" resulting from the failure of the submarine warfare, while the Globe says that Berlin hopes to induce Americans to protest against the British interpretation of maritime law.

"We do not possess evidence that Germany's move was prompted by anything nobler than expediency," says the Evening Standard.

"She apparently intends to continue the attacks on cargo boats without warning. If the mission of America is to uphold the laws of humanity we cannot see how President Wilson can accept less than an understanding from Germany that she will abandon piracy entirely."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"We cannot measure the exact amount of congratulation due President Wilson until there is some experience showing what Germany's formal renunciation of piracy means in practice. The Berns-torff letter has the appearance of being an effort to manoeuvre our merchantmen out of the freedom which has been gained by its own seamanship, and the failure of the submarine policy. A wolf does not cease being a wolf because he finds sheepskin clothing a convenient cover."

"The German surrender," says the Globe, "is an admission that the submarine warfare is a failure. Berlin undoubtedly calculates that improved relations in Washington will induce Americans to revive the protest against the British interpretation of maritime law."

WOMAN TALKS OF SINKING OF ARABIC

By L. V. B. RUCKER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Passengers on the White Star liner Arabic had only six minutes to escape when the steamer was torpedoed, no warning being given by the German submarine, according to Mrs. Zellah Covington, one of the thirty-five survivors of the Arabic who arrived here today on the liner St. Paul. Mrs. Covington gave a graphic word picture of the disaster off the Irish coast on August 19.

"The torpedo was aimed at the bow of the Arabic. In response to signals from the bridge the ship was turned in a futile effort to dodge the missile and the torpedo caught her in the stern.

DOWN IN SIX MINUTES.

"The Arabic went down in six minutes after she was struck. I know that because people on the Dunsley timed the sinking and told me as we rode back together. They also told me that the captain of the Dunsley lowered a boat to send warning to the Arabic, but the commander of the submarine ordered the boat back and told the Dunsley's captain that he would sink her if she attempted to warn the Arabic."

"We only had thirty-eight in our boat, though everybody seemed dazed as we started out over the water toward the Dunsley, until one woman began to get hysterical. I managed to quiet her, and when I turned to see what she was looking at so intently I saw the Arabic with her bow in the air, 400 feet out of the water.

"For a moment we f ared that the ship might fall on us, but in two minutes she had disappeared beneath the waves. There was nothing to mark the spot save our little boats bobbing about and the moaning and screaming of those left struggling in the floating wreckage.

"The Arabic was struck at 9:25 o'clock in the morning, and it was 2 o'clock before we were picked up."

MANY HOURS IN BOATS.

"Most of us were sick, many lying in the bottom of the lifeboat. At last a cloud of smoke appeared on the horizon and then we heard the sound of shell fire. We thought the submarine was at it again, but in a short time a transport came near us and stopped. We were soon taken on board the Magnolia and later taken to Queenstown on the Dunsley."

Mrs. Covington was accompanied by her husband, author of a play now running on Broadway.

Two other Arabic survivors, Miss Margaret Ross and James F. Bowley, were first cabin passengers on the St. Paul. The liner also carried thirteen Arabic survivors in the second cabin and eighteen in the steerage.

The St. Paul brought about 600 other passengers, among them Clifford M. Carver, secretary to Ambassador Page, who brought affidavits made by Arabic survivors.

The White Star liner Adriatic also brought 10 survivors from the Arabic, including Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Salt and her four children on their way from Lancastershire, England, to their new home in New Bedford, Mass. Others were Frederick Martin of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Mrs. P. C. Allison, Miss H. Christopherson, W. Bathurst and John Dougherty.

The Adriatic was out-raced by the St. Paul by three hours on the way over, but the two came up the bay together. The voyage of the White Star liner was marred by the suicide of a fireman, George Harrop, a survivor of the Arabic, crazed with brooding over that catastrophe. Harrop leaped overboard.

SAY SUBMARINE THAT HIT ARABIC IS CAPTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—That the German submarine which sank the White Star liner Arabic was captured the day following the destruction of the trans-Atlantic steamer was the assertion made today by an officer of the British royal naval reserve who arrived here on the Adriatic. This officer declared that he had seen and talked with two members of the submarine's crew.

According to the British naval officer, the submarine had on board two crews, one of experienced seamen and the other of apprentices who were being trained to operate submarines now under construction in Germany. He said that both crews were now imprisoned in England.

"The capture of the submarine was effected by three English torpedo boats disguised as small merchant vessels," he added. "No announcement was made of the capture by the British Admiralty because it was first desired to see what report Germany would make on the sinking of the liner."

The officer was unable to offer any explanations of the statements made by sailors of the Leyland liner Nicosian at Liverpool that they saw the submarine sunk.

Lynching Averted by Sheriff's Wife

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Sept. 2.—Additional deputy sheriffs today garrisoned the Pike County jail to guard against the repetition of the attempt by a mob to lynch a negro prisoner, which the wife of the sheriff so courageously prevented last night.

The sheriff was out of town when a mob of more than one hundred men came to the jail and demanded Harrison Rose, a negro, charged with murdering Dudley Davidson, a farmer. The sheriff's wife refused to allow the men to enter. She pleaded with them until they went away.

TYRANNY OF LAWS

By HOWARD NOBLE

AMONG THE ANGLO-SAXONS, a man who advocated a new law did so with a rope around his neck, thus signifying his willingness to die should it turn out a failure. Some students of present legislative tendencies have ironically suggested a revival of this ancient custom, to check one of the greatest evils confronting American civilization—the multiplicity of laws which are clogging the wheels of justice, fostering a contempt for the true spirit of law, and fast reducing the American people to a condition of law-ridden vassalage.

"We have allowed ourselves to become the most regulated people in the world," writes one jurist. "There is nothing on the earth, in the heavens above, or the waters beneath, that has not been subjected to legal regulation. In this 'Land of the Free' we are infinitely less free than monarchical England, much less than republican France, less than imperial Germany; and since the Czar's prohibition edict, many people have insisted that Russia should be our model."

Ex-Pres. Taft recently said that Congress and state legislatures had passed 65,000 laws in the last four years. No lawyer any longer pretends to "know the law"; legislatures pass their time largely in repealing and remaking these "half-baked" statutes; the courts are congested with cases based upon them. Mr. Taft declared that this dangerous situation was brought about, first, by an erroneous belief that any reform could be accomplished merely by legislation; and second, that legislators were prone to enact laws because their votes for these measures would profit them politically.

Many of these laws are "freaks." One legislature, a few years ago, attempted to pass a law making ground-hog day a legal holiday. In another state, a legislator introduced a bill to improve the alimentary canal. Another bill sought to make it a penal offence for a man to put his feet on a desk while dictating to a young lady stenographer. These freak statutes make entertaining reading, but they are symptoms of a condition that is anything save humorous.

"Every state in the Union," remarks one observer, "is complaining of the persistent tendency to regulate everything by statute, leaving nothing to individual initiative or responsibility. We are setting up a tyranny of laws no less menacing to the liberties of the people than the tyranny of kings."

The sentiment so often expressed, "There ought to be a law against it," finds its natural outcome in the "Be it enacted" of our legislative bodies,—a condition which is furthered by the activities of organizations which have abandoned their true sphere of moral reform for the scheme of regenerating humanity by legal process.

Thomas Jefferson was old-fashioned enough to say once: "That government is best that governs least." In other words, that government is most successful that savors least of paternalism. We appear to have departed sadly from the ideals of the fathers, but in reality the majority of people in this country are just as sane as they ever were. The trouble is we have good-naturedly allowed highly-energized minorities to mould their "isms" into law. The arch-type of such legislation is found in prohibition laws, the significance of which should make us stop and reflect. After prohibition of liquor — what? Prohibition of tea and coffee, dancing and theatre-going? Already a crusade to prohibit the sale and use of tobacco is under way in this country. From this it is only a step to invade a man's home and regulate the intimate details of his family life. Thoughtful men see in this entire scheme of legal prohibition the most insidious plan ever devised for the destruction of the individual's liberty of action.

No government which carried such ideals to their logical conclusion could possibly survive; and if it did, life within its jurisdiction would not be worth the living. Relief from the evils attending the abuse of liquor or other social shortcomings must be sought not in prohibitory laws, but in educating the individual to control his appetites—in strengthening the moral fibre, not in weakening it.

"Beer is the best upbuilder and sustainer next to beefsteak, and is essentially an athletic food. Nearly all trainers of note prescribe beer, in fact every American athletic record is held by men who follow this principle."—C. T. Flanagan, Famous Athlete and Founder of the Irish-Canadian Club.

MAYOR TO OPEN SOUTH BOSTON CARNIVAL

Once again old "King Carnival" today rules with merry hand over all South Boston.

With the entire peninsular bedecked in gala attire, and with many prominent city and State officials, including Mayor Curley, among its guests, the district today ushered in its second annual four days' carnival under the auspices of the South Boston Citizens' Association.

Today is "Mayor's Day" and Mayor Curley formally opens the festivities with an address at City Point. He was preceded by Park Commissioner John H. Dillon, who delivered a brief address of welcome.

With these formalities over the carnival quickly got into full swing. The day's program included land and aquatic sports, a band concert and exhibition playout by the Boston fire-boats. Mayor Curley awarded the prizes to the winners in the various events.

Tonight will be given the first presentation of the carnival's biggest feature—the gorgeous pageant entitled "At the End of the Rainbow." The pageant will be staged with elaborate scenic and electric effects amid the trees at City Point.

Sing Sing May Have Its Own Money and Bank

By International News Service.

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Following are some of the newest features planned by Warden Thomas M. Osborne for the convicts at Sing Sing prison:

Each convict to be paid $1 a day wages and to be compelled to pay out of his earnings for his meals and "room."

The money used will be "manufactured" in the prison, as there are expert coiners among the guests.

Aluminum and brass will be used in the coinage and there also will be bills up to $10.

Of course this "money" will be good only in the prison. But at the end of a man's term the money will be redeemed by the prison management for real money.

There will also be a Sing Sing bank—among the guests are a number of expert bankers.

FRANK PROBE IS RESUMED BY GRAND JURY

MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 2.—The Cobb county grand jury today resumed its investigation into the lynching of Leo M. Frank. Many witnesses will testify before that body today.

Judge Patterson in his charge to the jury said:

I want to say that you are not on a special grand jury drawn by the judge of the Blue Ridge circuit, as has been stated, but you are the regularly organized grand jury of Cobb county. I say this to the end that it be a great deal that has been said recently in the press, the facts have been garbled from, and I want to strongly assert that the press generally has done Cobb county a great injustice.

It appears that in a great deal of the matter that has been published some newspaper correspondents have seemingly got just as far away from the truth as they could, and the result has been that Cobb county has been made to suffer for it.

This county needs no specially selected grand jury now, as has it ever needed one. Men selected as grand jurors of this county have always done their duty. You gentlemen have done yours.

I have been informed that a murder was committed here in the county the day after the July term of court was adjourned. It has been published broadcast over the world that a lynching has recently occurred in Cobb county. It is your duty to make a thorough and complete investigation of that, as it is of all charges of crime when brought to your attention.

Church Gets $10,797 by Domestic's Will

Legacies of $1 each go to the two half-brothers and a half-sister of Emma Bordman of Randolph, who bequeathed $10,797 to the Congregational Church of Randolph. The Probate Court at Dedham has allowed the will to stand and has appointed Archibald McIlord of Randolph as executor. Miss Bordman was a domestic and was employed by one family for more than twenty-five years.

Sixth Custom House in Haiti Taken Over

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—United marines yesterday took over the custom house at Petitgoave, Haiti, making the sixth now in their possession. Admiral Caperton reported to the Navy Department today that the converted yacht Eagle landed fifty marines at Petitgoave. No resistance was offered.

Gets Jail Term on Liquor Charge

BROCKTON, Sept. 2.—Frank O. Randall, forty-eight, a druggist, of No. 295 North Main street, was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction in the Police Court, and also fined $200 on two liquor charges. The sentences were the severest in liquor cases in many years.

"ROOKIES" ARE READY FOR BIG BATTLE

VERRY'S MILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The Blue and Red armies after twenty-four hours of rest today will begin the last three days of the mimic war with a gigantic battle in this vicinity.

The problem for today will involve an attack upon the defence of a wagon train that will be more than three miles long. This battle, which will take the men toward the little border town of Altmont, is expected to be the most thrilling engagement yet fought in the war of Clinton county.

The present camp of the armies is on a high knoll two miles west of the village of Champlain. The ground is dry and the conditions are as perfect as can be imagined for campaigning. So rapid has been the pace at which the men have pushed that General Wood decided to give them a chance to rest, with just enough outpost work to keep them from forgetting that they are in war.

The Story of a Doctor's Wife

Told by the Wife Herself

No. 7—Connie Enjoys the Balm of Jim Farley's Friendly Sympathy

HUSBANDS may be divided into two classes. Friends and lovers. Men of the first sort remember that they have married individuals—women with personalities and desires of their own. Fortunate the woman who loves and is loved by such a man!

I married the Eternal Lover, who finds glory in the feminine weakness that pays tribute to his strength. Peter's wife had to be a creature of tenderness and mood and whim, depending for her subsistence—and when we sat down at two to a luncheon that had been prepared for one o'clock, my best culinary efforts were ruined and I had a throbbing headache which I had tried in vain to ward off.

The jangle of the telephone awakened me and I jumped up with throbbing heart preme joy on the man who had chosen her. His work absorbed him often, and when it did, his wife must sit and wait, lest if she had work of her own, she fail to be there when he wanted her.

Peter was not consciously selfish when he insisted on my giving up my Settlement work. He could not understand that in the work I liked I would find freshness and stimulation and interesting material to make me more fittingly his companion. He wanted a wife—a woman to love and pet when it suited him—such a wife as his English father had chosen in his German mother. He was at once the masterful knighthood and the Teuton who thinks woman's interests should be "Church, children and cooking."

I married the lover type of man, and for understanding and friendship I have been driven elsewhere. A headache led to the downpour of Jim Farley's friendship. This was the way of it:

"Jim Farley and I have a real estate deal on with Oscar Henschel, the promoter, Connie," said my husband at breakfast one morning late in July. "I think it might be a good idea to take him over to the club for dinner tonight—that is, if you don't mind dining alone—but with ten thousand dollars at stake, I think my wife will be a sensible woman and fill in her evening somehow."

A PET DREAD

Of all things I hate there is none that tortures me more than sitting down to a solitary meal. Like too many of the women alone in cities, I had often in my spinster days taken a hasty glass of milk rather than face a restaurant alone or dine at home by myself a meal at home. But with ten thousand dollars at stake, there was nothing I felt justified in saying.

I decided to give my husband a particularly delicious luncheon—that, I knew, would be my only meal—and I meant to make him realize that his home rather than the club was the place to entertain business friends.

Hurriedly I set about the preparation of a meal that should delight the gourmet who resides in every man. July is not a particularly propitious time for an unaccustomed cook to stand over a stove stirring sauce for the fish and baking rolls, nor is the work of turning an ice cream freezer cooling.

Peter was late—doctors generally are—and when we sat down at two to a luncheon that had been prepared for one o'clock, my best culinary efforts were ruined and I had a throbbing headache which I had tried in vain to ward off.

"Isn't the fish a little dry?" queried Peter over the lunch that I had meant to have impress him with my superiority to the club chef.

"It wouldn't have been at one," I replied with the tartness of a headachy woman.

"My dear girl, you must learn to plan lunches that don't have to be eaten at a given hour like society functions," smiled Peter.

"I'm sorry," I said with honest contrition, "I meant it to be good and I got such a headache preparing it."

"Such a headache you can't eat—a very silly thing to die on a hot day when cold cream and iced tea would please me far more—and ice cream, too! Connie, that's too rich for digestion or purse on a July noon.

COLD COMFORT

"You'd better go lie down and if your head doesn't get better, take some bromide—you'll find it in the medicine chest," and Peter rushed out to answer the bell that meant the beginning of patients for his afternoon office hour.

I dragged myself from my chair and set about clearing the table and washing the dishes. My head throbbed so and the drug I had taken left me so dizzy that I could scarcely do my work. I was so slow about it that I was just beginning when Peter looked into the kitchen long after four.

"Oh, you're better, I see. Well, I must run along and make some seven calls before I meet Jim and Henschel at the club. You women have an easy time in this world, little Constance. Kiss me goodby and wish me luck, for if Henschel takes that property you'll be driving a car inside of a month."

The promise of a car—when I wanted love and sympathy!

In spite of the terrible ache in my head and the depression and dizziness I felt from my ill-selected drug, I could not bring myself to take the bromide Peter had so carelessly prescribed. I remembered how he had got up in the middle of the night to go to a suffering patient a few days before, and trembled with bitterness to think how much more he would do for a pay patient than for his wife!

Of course, I did neglect to remember that the $10 Peter got for a night call benefited me a little, too!

By 6 I was a sobbing wreck. And a little later there was a key click in the door and a cheerful voice called, "Connie!"

It was Jim Farley—and my eyes were red and tear-swollen.

IN THE TWILIGHT

The voice went on as its owner approached and I sat still in the merciful twilight:

"Peter forgot some important papers so he looked in at my place on his way to pay his last calls, gave me his key and asked me to stop for them. He didn't want to keep Henschel waiting for our appointment at seven-thirty. Why, what's the matter, Connie, you look regularly done up. Has the awful heat given you a headache?"

"Yes," I moaned.

"Well, first I'll give you a dose of bromide and a hot-water bottle to draw the blood from your head and then I'll call Henschel and tell him the dinner's to be a duet and next I'll get Peter here to prescribe for his pet patient," said Jim briskly.

In a few minutes I was drinking the bromide and lying comfortably on my couch with a soothing hot-water bottle at the base of my brain.

"Don't bother Peter," I begged. "I'm better already. And there is so much at stake. Please, Jimmie, please," and I managed a smile. "I'll worry myself sick again if I think you are going to say a word to Peter.

"Not for worlds would I have risked Jim's speaking to my husband and being put off with some generalization about women making a lot of fuss about a little pain. My pride has never hurt anyone so much as myself.

By nine I had cried myself into a doze. The tears were as much for his friend's tenderness as for my husband's unconscious cruelty.

The jangle of the telephone bell awaked me. I jumped up with throbbing heart—Peter had remembered my pain and my loneliness and was phoning to lighten their burden.

FARLEY'S VOICE

Jimmie Farley's voice, strong and kind, came to me over the wires:

"All better, Mrs. Connie? I haven't said a word to Peter. The deal's going well and I hope that's a good omen that a little woman I know is all over her pain. Have you eaten anything,. What—oh, I see, you must eat. That will never do. I'll send you some broth down in a thermos bottle—a messenger will have it there in a jiffy. Don't argue, little lady, your supper is on its way. Hope you'll be well when Peter gets home with good news."

I ate the chicken and drank the broth Jim Farley sent me. And then I got into bed and tried to sleep. But I was still awake when Peter came in noisily.

"Connie, the deal went through," he exulted. "Now we'll consider a nice, gentle car a lady can drive!"

I sat up in bed and looked at my husband with no thrill of gladness at his promise or news.

"I've almost died of a headache and a lot you cared—Jim Farley cared more."

"My dear Connie, when will you learn that a doctor is used to pain —real pain and suffering—not trumpery headaches. I wonder how you would stand it if you were actually called on to endure suffering."

But as I lay all night with heavy heart, I thought I knew real pain—and I had not guessed how a woman's heart can ache!

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:

|---|---|
| Bay Rum | 1 oz. |
| Barbo Compound | 1 box |
| Glycerine | ½ oz. |

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

HAVEN'T you seen 'em, little chaps under ten, adoring a maid grown clear out of their world into a more flowery one of her own where there is the joy of high-heeled shoes and taffeta frocks and hair that may now be experimented with to her heart's delight, and maybe in the distance a half-way beau or two?

Have you seen two of 'em in love at the self-same time—jealously clutching a hand apiece and leaning out to glare at each other between times and ready at the least slip in her diplomacy to fall upon and gnaw one another?

I've seen such "strained relations." And delved into the beauty of character of such a young girl whom small boys adore.

There is no more perfect praise you may have handed you than that a small boy loves you! No better proof that you are wholesome and true, fascinating a bit, clever, crystal-deep, thoroughly worth while, and eternally young!

Summer Relaxation and Morals

Another Fictionless Fable, Showing That Too Much "Easing-up" Brings Its Own Reward

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE was once a girl whose pet maxim was "It's so different in the Summer time." She was quite sure that you could do things in the Summer that you would never contemplate in the Winter. She believed in shedding your normal personality and becoming whatever the fancy of the moment suggested.

"It's so restful," said she, "to be just an unconscious little animal living up to the whim of the moment."

And she lived up to her theory.

One Summer she met a very charming youth who was not at all eligible and not at all matrimonially inclined. His meagre salary sufficed to buy bonbons for the new loves who came into his life every few months, but it would not have purchased roast beef and apple pie for such a permanent fixture as a wife.

The girl found him particularly fascinating. With him she lolled on the beach in her vividest bathing suit, in his company she danced gaily in all the flashiest cabarets.

His vacation lasted three weeks, and during it the girl had what she called "the time of her life." And the rocking chair intricacies of gossip on the hotel porch had also the time of its life. There weren't many men in the place, and the girl and her attendant cavalier were targets at which no caustic mind could help aiming a little vitriol.

At the end of three weeks the youth who made love like the hero of a melodrama returned to the city and its interests of work and play. The first week after the Real Man left, the girl got a dozen American beauties and no mail.

MORAL: "Easy come, easy go" applies to love affairs as well as to money, and the girl who "relaxes" in Summer would do well to remember that the average man insists on dignity in his sister and his wife.

In Our Wonderful World

THE trenches taken from the Germans east of Souchez, Rue and Rue d'Ouvert were fitted with electric lights and fans, and with mechanism worked by electric power for running them. The necessary power was obtained from an electric plant at the coal mines in the La Bassee area. In one trench the men profited for several hours by the electric light, but eventually the enemy severed the wires and so cut off the current.

The bat ranks among animals, not birds; it is a mammal—that is, it suckles its young. A delicate membrane stretches from limb to limb on both sides of the body and encloses the greatly elongated digits. This membrane extends in some cases beyond the hinder limbs so as to include the tail. Their whole structure is perfectly adapted to sustained flight, and unsuited for progression on the ground. Bats have small eyes, but their other organs of sense are so highly developed that even when blind they can fly in perfect safety, avoiding obstacles with seeming ease.

One way of dealing with the lethal gas which the Germans are launching against their enemies so as to obtain an atmosphere which, although injurious, would not be fatal, says a writer in the Optician, is by the use of steam sprays, to produce the effect of projecting a very heavy shower of rain. Bromine is soluble and chlorine very soluble in water; and any of the atmosphere is therefore a method of defence.

The device is a simple arrangement of mirrors that the watcher can hold in his hand, and which enables him to scan the entire vault of the sky while looking down in a convenient and natural position. It has been found so convenient that a much better and more constant look-out is maintained.

It has cured many cases of eczema and other unsightly irritating skin diseases. Some of the cures may be truly called wonderful. People who have suffered for years can now take fresh courage, because Cadum ointment is entirely different from anything else. ## Virtue Itself Is Sometimes Its Only Reward

Another Fictionless Fable for the Fair About the Girl Who Courted Recognized Danger

By ANN LISLE

THERE was once a pretty young girl whose employer was known as "Old Skinflint." He paid his private secretary $8 a week for sitting at a stuffy little desk in a dark corner and working from nine till six.

His own daughters got $8 a day to expend in bright corners of electric-lighted tea rooms or anywhere else they choose.

The wrongs of the young woman who earned $8 a week instead of being given that much a day included the fact that she had to hurry down a cold lunch which the office boy brought in to her and to stay at night frequently to get out letters of which the boss bethought himself at a quarter of six, and which he must sign and get off the very first thing in the morning. The year that our pretty young girl came to work for Old Skinflint his family decided to summer in California. And at the end of the month he found himself very lonely indeed.

One afternoon at five Old Skinflint, who was lonely indeed, leaned across his desk and asked, "What do you say, my dear, to a little dinner with me this evening?"

Dulcie knew very well that a little dinner with Old Skinflint would be likely to bear no relation to such salaries as $8 a week. Also she had read a great deal of modern literature about Beauty and the Beast, and Morals and the High Cost of Living. So she fixed her eyes firmly on Old Skinflint, said a little prayer for the job she was quite sure she was losing and then recited her creed:

"I am engaged to a young man and I am in love with him, and whenever I get enough saved up out of my $8 a week to buy me a hundred dollars' worth of trousseau I am going to marry him. So I don't go out to dinner with any married men—see?"

"Quite right, my dear. The world would probably disapprove of your dining with an old man who might very easily be your father—but if you and your young man wait for a hundred dollars to pile up you will probably know many times as lonely as these I have while my folks are in California.

"So from Monday on you get $16 a week—and maybe some time the young fellow will take you along to Revere." And when Dulcie told her young man about it, he said, "Nuts!" The old dog is probably crazy about you, kid. You ought to be very careful, but play the game right and you can probably get nana to pay you $15 a week while he is following love-scenes for his girls out in California."

However, Dulcie's next pay envelope contained the usual $8, and when she ventured a protest, Old Skinflint looked at her with a glimmer of understanding and informed her curtly that there were plenty of young women with ability quite equal to hers who would be glad to work for $8 a week and if the salary was not sufficient she was of course free to seek better pay.

on Friday His Unparalleled Experience.

Carl Frank List is an American sailor boy. He sailed on the Norwegian ship Cambus Kenneth of Tvedestrande, Norway, from Portland, Ore., last Spring, bound for Queenstown with a cargo of wheat.

The Cambus Kenneth was caught by a German submarine off the Irish coast. Most of her crew were put into one of their boats by the submarine commander, but five of them were taken on board the German submarine, which then blew up and sunk the Norwegian vessel.

Carl List, the American sailor boy, was one of those taken on the German submarine. He spoke German.

He was not made prisoner, but was made to work his way, doing all kinds of work.

He was on the German submarine 11 days. Much of the time he was passing ammunition.

The submarine was the famous U-39.

This is the German undersea boat that has sunk more enemy ships than any other.

While Carl List, the American sailor, was one of her crew, she sunk a score of enemy ships. After 11 days the American sailor boy was put ashore at a German submarine base, sent to Berlin, where the United States Embassy became interested in his welfare, and the Norway Consul-General took up his claims arising from the sinking of the Norwegian ship.

He has told exclusively for the Boston American everything that he saw with his own eyes, everything that he heard with his own ears, in the 11 days of wonderful adventure on the German submarine, which in all of that time, incessantly, day and night, raked the English Channel for enemy ships (of which she sunk 14). At times the submarine floated stormily on the surface of the seas, at other times it reposed peacefully on the bed of the ocean, while her crew rested and slept, but most always it travelled just under the surface of the Channel lying in wait for prey.

RAPID FIRE GUNS NOW IN THE LINE IN FOSS-FITZ DUEL

one go. Fitz, he says himself, drank ginger ale.

Foss, three times elected Governor as a Democrat and now back in the Republican fold, is seeking to use the national prohibition movement as he used the Democratic organization in Massachusetts, Mr. Fitzgerald says, to further the political interests of Foss.

All the hands in the Foss publicity department got a day off today. Their work will be easy while the Foss-Fitzgerald-Driscoll controversy rages on the front pages.

The thing began with Foss' comments on the Sunday Faneuil Hall rally of a Personal Liberty League, of which Dennis D. Driscoll is one of the leaders.

The league took a wallop at Foss, prohibitionist, who immediately wrote a statement for the newspapers, in which he charged that Fitzgerald and Driscoll once suggested that a strike at one of the Foss plants wouldn't amount to much—or words to that effect—if Governor Foss should happen to appoint Dennis D. Driscoll to a responsible place in the State government. Driscoll was not appointed. Foss, he says, won the strike.

RAPS THAT "LEAGUE."

Mr. Foss also intimated in the opening round in the controversy that the Driscoll "league" is supported by the big liquor interests of Boston.

Mr. Driscoll has retained John F. Feeney, Esq.

Former Mayor Fitzgerald also will sue.

Meanwhile the "Old Boy" moved breezily today through Essex County and played to big crowds.

FOSS REJOINDER TO REPLY OF THE FORMER MAYOR

Former Governor Foss this afternoon gave out this rejoinder to Former Mayor Fitzgerald's reply to the Foss letter, which charged that Fitzgerald urged the appointment of Dennis D. Driscoll to the Prison Board as a way to ending strikes at the Foss plants:

Boston, Mass., Sept. 2.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Boston, Mass.

My dear Mr. Fitzgerald:

I have read with deep interest your vigorous letter in the morning papers. I had been informed that you were about to finish me with one blast and I hoped to read a statement from you long enough to include a passing reference to at least some of your activities in the dual capacity of Mayor of Boston and volunteer Governor of Massachusetts during my three administrations.

I am not surprised at your failure to recall the Driscoll episode out of so many, but what I can't understand is your indignation. If you will read the files of the Boston newspapers you will find an almost continuous record of your pilgrimages up Beacon Hill to help me run the Commonwealth.

Everybody knows you would not let your lips betray what your heart desired in the way of patronage and that you would not think of volunteering advice or giving it until urgently requested.

Of course you would not think of mentioning such a man as Driscoll for chairman of the Prison Board. You knew him too well for that, and desired, no doubt, to have him where you could keep your eye on him and a guiding hand upon his work. You insisted, therefore, in retaining him in a position which is quite different from that of chairman of the Prison Board, namely, that of Penal Commissioner of Boston.

A SENSE OF DUTY.

I realize that it was only your sense of your official duty that caused you to bring to the attention of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration in the State House a fact so little known to them and to the public as the existence of these pre-election strikes against me.

I also suppose that the statute required you to volunteer to advise me, both as Governor and as the head of these plants, as you say you did, just how to settle these pre-election strikes.

Of course you wouldn't suggest to me placating labor agitators through the appointment of a labor leader to a position requiring the qualifications of a head of a prison system.

Even if you had worked that game yourself by appointing Driscoll as Penal Commissioner of Boston, you naturally wouldn't need to suggest that kind of a trick to such a political trickster as you deem me. And having obtained the credit with labor agitators of appointing Driscoll, you wouldn't wish me to take the credit away from you.

Of course you would never claim it for yourself. As a true friend, however, you would advise me rather than to appoint Driscoll, to give the plants to the workmen to run at the labor leader's direction. I didn't need to do either, you remember. The workmen themselves saw that if the strike wasn't just what I charged it to be, it hadn't any reason for being; they went back to work without concessions of any kind.

PERSONAL LIBERTY.

And in this new pre-election strike, to which Driscoll and his "Liberty League" were, of course, quite indifferent, the workmen didn't walk out at all.

I am much interested in your stand for personal liberty, though I perceive you don't extend your charity to me. I always thought it was not liberty, but license you stood for. I used to try to estimate which you were making more of, speeching in favor of total abstinence or pleas for liquor licenses for your family.

Your well-known devotion to the cause of temperance was beautifully illustrated in your persistent and disinterested opposition to the appointment of Robert A. Woods as a member of the "Licensing Board for the City of Boston."

Now, about Driscoll. It probably was as other Fitzgerald who proposed him. You distribute the family holdings so widely that it is hard to tell which Fitzgerald has this saloon or that, which the newspaper, and which the clothing store. And, speaking about the settling of a libel suit, I suppose Mr. Driscoll has his price.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) E. N. FOSS.

FOSS STATEMENT UNTRUE, EX-MAYOR FITZGERALD SAYS

Following is the statement in part issued by ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald in reply to former Governor Eugene N. Foss:

(Governor Foss' statement that I urged the appointment of Dennis D. Driscoll as chairman of the Prison Commission Board, with the assurance that if the appointment were made a strike at each of the three plants would be called off is not true.

The story is a pure invention and put out by the Governor to attract notice to his campaign. It is inconceivable to me that a man who has held the exalted office of Governor of the Commonwealth for three terms should stoop to such a low level, but Mr. Foss has done so many things in recent months that I am not surprised at anything that he may attempt in order to promote his insatiate appetite for headlines in the newspapers.

I acted in the strike matter at his factory as the statute of the Commonwealth required me to act in all strikes in the city, viz., call the matter to the attention of the State Board of Arbitration, and I asked him to join me in this request, as he had done in the Elevated strike, though the Elevated employes were on a strike at the time of the hearing. This he refused to do. I told him that he had a splendid chance as Governor and employer both to vindicate the principle of arbitration, but he was obdurate.

I never knew Mr. Driscoll to have any connection with the matter directly or indirectly.

I intend to push this matter to a finish; it is time that Governor Foss should be shown up in his true light and it is my intention to expose him in the courts of the Commonwealth so that the people may get a proper angle on him.

He is a faker and mountebank of the rankest kind. He is using prohibition as he used both the Democratic and Republican parties—for his own purposes—and would abandon it as quickly as he did both of the other parties if it suited his purpose.

As an evidence of the above I want to relate a little incident that shows the character of the man. One night after a Democratic rally in Attleboro, at which Mr. Foss and myself spoke, we were invited to a little lunch given by the Democratic Town Committee. Both ginger ale and beer were served. We were both asked what we would have. I said that I would have a glass of ginger ale served. Governor Foss said that he would take a bottle of beer, and to my intense disgust, without waiting for a glass, he put the bottle of beer up to his head and drank its contents. Many of those present were so disgusted that they left the table.

I recall another incident told by reputable Boston newspaper men who were present during one of his tours. After a long ride the party resorted to a hotel and some of the members of the party took a drink to warm up. The Governor, who was standing by the fire, was asked to join, and said "No, I do not drink." Shortly afterwards the members of the party went outside the room to wash up and left the bottle of whiskey upon the table. When they returned they found the Governor with the bottle of whiskey up to his head, drinking it. Both of these instances are illustrative of the character of the man.

He thinks there is a chance of prohibition sweeping the country and he is playing for the Prohibition nomination for President in 1916. JOHN F. FITZGERALD

Nevada Will Have Her First Trial on Oct. 18

The United States battleship Nevada, which is now practically completed at the Fore River shipyards, Quincy, is expected to have her first trial trip October 18.

The Nevada is 500 tons larger than the New York and the Texas, the two largest United States battleships in commission, and challenges comparison with anything afloat.

For more than a year the huge bulk of the Nevada has attracted attention of passersby on the Quincy bridge that connects Quincy and Weymouth. She was launched July 11, 1914.

Day and night gangs have been at work in order to have the great ship in readiness as soon as possible.

The Nevada is 582 feet long with a beam of 95 feet 2¾ inches, and a mean draft of 28 feet 6 inches. She will be driven by Curtis turbine engines of the oil-burning type. Her estimated speed is 20½ knots, which very likely will be exceeded.

THEATRICAL MAN NAMED IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE BY HARRY THAW

By International News Service.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—And now Harry Thaw wants a divorce. He has filed a libel against Evelyn Nesbit Thaw here through his attorneys, Stone & Stone. He names John Francis, who is described as a "New Yorker." It is said others will be named, including a well-known New York theatrical manager.

The petition is very brief, covering less than one typewritten page.

The filing of the suit is said to follow an espionage by detectives in the employ of Thaw, who have been "trailing" Evelyn for a long time.

Following Thaw's release by the New York courts recently, and during his subsequent visit to Atlantic City, he intimated he might take some action against his wife looking to a legal separation.

THAW TO LIVE IN PITTSBURGH.

Until the filing of the suit it was a matter of conjecture where Thaw could enter the contemplated proceedings, owing to his past residence in New York State and the fact that Evelyn has spent a good part of her time this Summer in the Adirondacks, where Jack Clifford, her dancing partner, has a cottage.

The latest action is taken as an indication of Thaw's intention to establish his home town as legal and permanent residence. Stone & Stone have appeared at various times as home counsel for Harry, former Governor William A. Stone having been active in Thaw's successful efforts at being declared sane in the New York courts.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was originally a Pittsburgh girl, and at present maintains a home in Brookline, a suburb, where she is a frequent visitor with her son. When Mrs. C. J. Holman, mother of Evelyn, was told of the suit she said she knew absolutely nothing of the case. She refused to discuss the matter in any phase.

"I am Mrs. Thaw's mother, as what would you think of me if I said anything of the case?" was her closing remark.

THAW'S MOTHER SILENT.

Mrs. William Copley Thaw, who is in her Summer home, "Elmhurst," in Cresson, Pa., declared she had nothing to say about the action.

"If the action was just filed as you say, what would I know about it?" asked Mrs. Thaw over the long-distance wire. "I will not comment."

Several weeks ago Harry Thaw and a small party of friends started for San Francisco in automobiles, intending to visit the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He was stopped in a suburb and a suit was entered against him for speeding, which is hanging fire until he returns.

He was then heard from in Denver and Omaha, but for some time no word has been received from him, and it is supposed he is in San Francisco, as several weeks ago a Pittsburgh tailor sent him a large consignment of new clothes there.

"I can't possibly see how he could do such a thing," said "Jack" Francis, in referring to Harry Thaw's action in naming him in his suit for divorce against Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

"Why, I haven't seen Mrs. Thaw for three years," he added. "Thaw has made a grave mistake. He couldn't possibly have mentioned my name."

Francis was informed of Thaw's action at the Girard Hotel, where he lives. He refused to make further comment on the case, and could not be found later at any of his usual haunts on Broadway.

HINTED AT SUIT JULY 17.

The first intimation given by Thaw that he expected to bring suit for divorce was in Atlantic City on July 17, soon after he was declared sane.

"There will be no conciliation," said Thaw. "Ultimately there will be a suit for divorce filed."

When this news was conveyed to Mrs. Thaw at Chateauguay, she said:

"America's pet murderer is evidently still a cad. A fox may change its fur, but its habits—never. Tell the man that I saved from the electric chair that all I ask of him is that he leave me in peace to continue my stage career.

"How a human being calling himself a man can quickly forget the sacrifice I made for him and nonchalantly remark that he has no interest in the woman who saved his life is one of the incomprehensible mysteries of this mysterious universe. A man who can do that is either insane or he is an ungrateful cad."

The acquaintance between Francis and Mrs. Thaw began soon after Thaw shot White. Francis at that time was a reporter for the Morning Telegraph. He and Mrs. Thaw became warm friends and were often seen in public together.

Mrs. Thaw took an apartment in West Thirty-first street, and Francis, who about this time became a freelance writer, was often seen there by visitors.

Mrs. Thaw went to Europe in 1909. In the meantime she had started an action for an annulment of her marriage, but later dropped the case.

Russell Thaw was born in Hamburg in August, 1910. It was not until nearly two years later that Broadway learned Mrs. Thaw was a mother, so successfully had she kept her secret. She brought the child back to this country by way of Montreal in order to foil reporters, and had been living for several months in an apartment at Broadway and Ninety-eighth street before it became known that she had a child.

For months she denied the fact. When she did admit it she said the boy was the image of his father, Harry Thaw.

"I'll tie up the Thaw estate with my son," she is reported to have said. "The father of the child is Harry Thaw and when the right time comes everything about his birth will be fully established."

Thaw flew into a wild rage when he heard his wife had named him as the father of the boy. He issued a statement from Matteawan denying the paternity and saying that he had been absolutely separated from his wife for five years.

I am not interested in Mrs Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's conduct in any way, and did not know that she was going abroad. We no longer have anything in common.

Any pretense that I have a child born in 1910 is ridiculous and false, as Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and I have been absolutely seperated for over five years. You newspaper men know this, consequently it is unnecessary for me to say more.

HOUGHTON AND DUTTON'S OUTING

A memorable outing and field day was enjoyed at Lexington Park by employes of the Roxbury store of Houghton & Dutton Company. About one hundred and fifty persons attended and on their return home said that the event was one that would long be remembered.

Special cars left the Dudley Street Terminal with the party, amid deafening cheers. Each car was decorated with banners.

Immediately on the arrival of the party at Lexington a number of athletic and field events were held on the athletic field. These events were under the direction of a committee comprising Dudley Goring as starter and E. P. Davis and Thomas Linehan as judges.

Here is a summary of the athletic events:

100-yard dash (girls under eighteen)—Won by Ella Swabrick, Alice Cunningham second.

100-yard dash (open to girls)—Won by Elizabeth Swabrick, Alice Cunningham second.

100-yard dash (men)—Won by Thomas Fogarty, A. McKenzie second.

Fat men's race—Won by Superintendent Thomas Linehan, W. C. Crosby second.

Relay race (girls)—Won by Anna Mason, Grace Canty second.

Mixed race—Won by Thomas Fogarty, W. Murray second.

Baseball—Butters vs. Tubs, won by Butters, 7 to 5. Batteries: Butters—John Sullivan, pitcher; Captain Dudley Goring, catcher. Tubs—Captain A. Fogarty, pitcher; A. McKenzie, catcher.

The winners were awarded prizes. The dancing was in charge of E. H. Boulanger. Free refreshments were served with the compliments of the Houghton & Dutton Company.

The feature of the day was a baseball game between the "Butters" and the "Tubs," which was won by the former by a score of 7 to 5. Captain Goring of the winners was given a monster ovation for the victory. The stars of the contest were Manager E. P. Davis, whose work at the bat rendered great aid to the victors, and Superintendent Thomas Linehan, who on several occasions gave perfect impersonations of Duffy Lewis on Duffy's cliff in Fenway Park.

Manager Davis was chairman of the general committee in charge of the affair and proved that he knew what all wanted for good entertainment. He was assisted by Thomas Linehan, Dudley Goring, Thomas Fogarty, Chester Copperthrome and William Butterworth.

The guests were E. P. Morse, general manager of the Houghton & Dutton Company, John Jordan, William McNamara of the main store, and W. D. Quimby.

MACKS DOWN FOR SECOND DRUBBING

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—The Red Sox will give the Athletics their second trouncing in the current series at Shibe Park this afternoon, unless the unexpected happens, with a vehement vengeance.

Boston is first in Ban Johnson's table, and Philadelphia is last. The two clubs are separated by the wide chasm of 367 points, the distance being 42½ games. So, we say the Red Sox will beat the Athletics again advisedly. Surely "dope" will be given a solar-plexus wallop if the advertised triumph does not come through.

The Red Sox got underway in this series yesterday. Did they look good? Does Harry Thaw enjoy his freedom? Can a duck come about in the briny?

"Little Nemo" Foster held tight all the way and deftly applied the brush. He was hocked up in sensational fashion, and the enemy gave Wyckoff, a Class A hurler, one that Hughie Jennings, the Detroit chieftain, stated a few weeks back he would gladly pay $15,000 to acquire, one of his dizziest drubbings of the Summer.

Mack says his club is going to grab the gonfalon. All 800 of the faithful in attendance at yesterday's matinee agree with him. So do all the experts, as well as ushers, park police, scorecard and peanut venders, etc., etc.

RUTH DOWN TO HURL.

For today "Babe" Ruth who keeps the other fellow from hitting what he dishes up with his good left wing and who takes a special delight in biffing what the other fellow serves up, is Carrigan's first nominee for slab duty today. Ernie Shore will be the switch if a switch is made, which, according to "General Bill," is hardly likely, as Ruth knows he is down to pitch and he never complains of any aches or ills.

Mack is keenly disappointed over what transpired out on his lot yesterday. With "Stuffy" McInnis back with the club, the angularly constructed Cornelius was able to line up his team in its strongest possible shape. Then, he had a veteran battery in the points, Wyckoff and Jack Lapp, and advertised in advance he was in to make matters particularly interesting for the Red Sox. So do all the experts, as well as ushers, park police, scorecard and peanut venders, etc., etc.

"CONNIE" UP IN AIR.

Bressler, one of Mack's few remaining seasoned hurlers, is the first pick for slab duty. But "Connie" is not a bit sure but that some broiler will draw the assignment. He used Pillion, the local semi-pro, in a late battle out in St. Louis, and Pillion looked like a million bucks. So he may show today. Or maybe Sheehan, another mighty good-looking youngster, will be trotted out.

Jack Barry feels very happy over being remembered with a chest of silver by his old pals, the Philadelphia ball "fans," yesterday. Said chest is a massive one, and the silver is of the hope-to-die variety.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

BY RIGHT FIELD

EVERYBODY in Boston with the interests of the Red Sox at heart has watched the Chicago-Detroit series which ends today. Then on next Tuesday, Detroit swings into the Windy City for another go at the White Sox. It's a pity the Rowlands cannot do some winning.

THE Tigers are at Fenway Park, September 18, 17, 18 and 20. These three series, just enumerated, ought to play a leading part in the fortunes of Hughey Jennings and his band of crusaders. The Red Sox are figuring the Tigers will get quite a rebuff in some of the games, at Fenway Park anyway, if nowhere else.

PRESIDENT LANNIN of the Red Sox paid a high tribute to the "fans" when he was asked about that Chicago story that Ban Johnson was coming here "to investigate reports of gambling at Fenway Park."

"THERE are two good ball clubs in Boston," said Mr. Lannin, "and it is a great city for loyal support and orderly, self-respecting crowds. I insist that there is less disorder and 'gambling' in Boston than in any city on the two circuits.

"A-S for 'rambling,' I don't know of anything approaching it at Fenway Park, unless you would call some fellow staking a quarter with some chum, or wagering the cigars, 'gambling.' That Chicago story would make one think there was a betting ring under the grandstand.

"BOSTON fans' make up a well behaved crowd. Just one proof of this is the small number of policemen we have at the park."

WE shall probably hear from Harry McCluskey, the southpaw, shipped back home from Boston by Manager Herzog of the Reds. According to the gossip of the writers who were here with the team, Herzog tried to lose McCluskey once before. He told him before a game in the middle of the Summer that he had better pack his grip, while the Reds despaired in another direction for their road trip.

HERZOG and his squad were just comfortably seated in the diner after the last home game, being about thirty miles out from Cincinnati, when who should appear but McCluskey. He had "stowed away" on the train. "What are you doing here?" asked Manager Herzog, in amazement. "What's everybody else doing?" retorted McCluskey. And on the strength of this he was kept along with the squad, but his pitching wasn't up to his bulldog spirit and now he has gone hence.

HEINIE WAGNER has been despatched by Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox to size up the style of play of the Phillies and the Robins, figuring them as possible opponents for the world's gonfalon. Haven't you forgotten something, Bill? There's another pretty classy club to get a line on.

THE Robins, who start a series in Ebbets today, have only half a dozen or so games on their home grounds left. They will have to have good luck on the road in order to stay up there.

ROBINSON BANKS ON CLEANING UP

Braves-Robins Facts for Today's Opener

Crucial—Fight for second place.
Official opener for Braves—"Dick" Rudolph.
Main reliance of Robins—"Wheezer" Dell.
Assistant main reliance—"Nap" Rucker.
Braves' percentage—.529.
Robins' percentage—.537.
Forecast—A whale of a hot ball game.
Net result last six clashes—Robins 4, Braves 1, tied 1.
Season's standing—Braves bagged 10 out of 16.
Playing time—3:15.

By RIGHT FIELD.

"The Phillies, Robins and Braves are running along so closely that it looks to me that the decision on the top rung will come partly from the success of each on the road and partly from just how much each of the three will be able to get out of the few games they have left at home."

That's what Wilbert Robinson, boss of the Robins, had to say today, when asked his opinion of the National League race.

"The edge of having home 'rooters,' the advantage of practice on the home grounds and the 'breaks' that seem to come to the team that is defending its own plate count very heavily in a tight race like this one.

"I bought 'Rube' Marquard and Larry Cheney so as to have some veterans around and not have to depend too much on youngsters. I have nine pitchers here with me.

"I see that Toney got the Braves on his second try and gave them a close battle on his first attempt. He whipped my club twice not long ago. Fred is some pitcher.

"Well, you see where we are and what we have been doing. We're only a little above .500, but we're around. That shows what the fight is like this year.

"I was glad to see the Phillies and Braves both lose on a day when we were idle. We got over to Boston early so as to rest up for the opening game.

"We've beaten the Braves four times out of the last six starts, and also tied them once. That shows what we can do and we are out to repeat that work."

Women May Witness Biddeford Battle

BIDDEFORD, Sept. 2.—When Dave Mills of Australia and George (Kid) Cotton of Boston meet in their ten-round boxing bout at the Airdrome Labor Day afternoon women will be allowed to purchase tickets and witness the scrap between the two heavies.

Gaelic Footballers Coming.

The Irish National Foresters have booked the Cork and Kerry Gaelic football teams of New York to clash on Russell Field, North Cambridge, in their coming field meet. The teams have just taken turns winning in New York and are to play off their tie here. Joseph McNamara will be in charge of the track events.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 2.—The New York Yankees play the Grays at Rocky Point next Sunday. The game with Buffalo scheduled for Sunday will be played off tomorrow.

YANKEES TO GET HOME RUN BAKER

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The New York Americans are to get J. Franklin Baker, the erstwhile ex-home run king of the Athletics. The deal is all but closed and Owners Ruppert and Huston of the Yankees are confident "Connie" Mack will come through with the promise he made them in Philadelphia yesterday and accept the price Ban Johnson, a party to the conference, considers most fair.

All hands were together at the talkfest and it is thought here that $15,000 is the price suggested by Johnson, agreed to by Ruppert and Huston and accepted as satisfactory by Mack, though "Connie's" parting shot was that he wanted to sleep over night on the proposition.

With Boston, Detroit and Chicago cornering all the stars, the owner of the Yankees informed Johnson in emphatic language that they would have to be helped out. They told Ban about Frank Baker and stated they would go any reasonable distance in getting him.

And now the reigning question is: What club will get "Stuffy" McInnis, the lone survivor of the Mackian $180,000 infield?

Tom Cowler, of House of Corbett, Flops Hemple

The Californian took a severe beating, but his gameness had him on his feet until the completion of the third round, when he collapsed in a neutral corner and Referee Billy Roche ordered him back to his stool.

Hemple, weighing 186 pounds, was forced to concede a twenty-five-pound weight handicap to Cowler. In the very first round Cowler dropped Hemple three times.

In the third round Hemple tried to fight, but there was no strength in his punches and he had all he could do to remain on his feet. Cowler's own blows were weak enough, but he kept pilling them on Hemple's jaw, and near the close of the round the latter collapsed.

McVea and Wills Billed Next on Atlas A. A. Card

When Sam McVea, the generally acknowledged best colored heavyweight in the world, meets Harry Wills of New Orleans at the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night the "fans" should see a stubbornly fought contest.

McVea has displayed his ability here several times and batted at 1.000 clip. The manner in which Sam defeated Langford and toppled over "Sandy" Ferguson at the Triple-A proves him a live wire.

While Wills is a stranger in Boston, those who have seen him in action elsewhere claim he is good enough to give McVea a stiff argument. They met in the South once and their clash was jammed full of busy doings.

Heiland Admits He Ran in a Pro Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—"Hal" Heiland, the Newark runner, admitted to J. W. Scandrett, chairman of the Metropolitan A. A. U. registration committee, that he took part in the professional match race last week at Dion, N. Y. He denied, however, that the race was a fake, as alleged in several reports.

He said he never saw his opponent until he got on his mark at the start. Heiland emphatically denied that Don Lippincott was his opponent. He knows Lippincott well, as he was a member of the Olympic team with him in 1912. Lippincott, in Philadelphia, says the statement that he took part in the race in Ilion is false.

OUIMET-TRAVERS JOIN EVANS ON SIDELINES

Pairings for Today.

R. A. Gardner vs. D. E. Sawyer. Max Marston vs. Howard Lee. J. L. Andrew vs. Nelson Whitney. J. D. Standish, Jr., vs. Sherrill Sherman.

By "CHICK" EVANS.

Four Times Western Open Champion and America's Expert in Week.

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—The last of the "big three" has vanished from the National golf championship of 1915.

At almost the same moment Ouimet was shaking hands with Standish on the fourteenth green and the National Open Champion was shaking hands with Max Marston on the seventeenth green.

It can be fairly said that "Jimmy" Standish owns the golfing part of Detroit this morning and it must further be said that the good playing of all the Detroit golfers has been a marked feature of this tournament.

The two matches of the day that drew the largest galleries were those between Jerome D. Travers and Max Marston, and Francis Ouimet and Jesse Standish, Jr.

Travers finished the morning round one up on Marston, making it 76 to 78 for Marston. At the start of the afternoon play Marston developed a run of poor putting and at the short seventh hole was two down.

MARSTON AT BEST.

After a beautiful pitch to within four feet of the hole Travers laid Marston a dead stymie. The latter unhesitating, took his niblick, jumped the ball and holed out for a two. This seemed to be the turning point in the match and from then on Marston played well nigh unbeatable golf.

At the tenth hole Marston played his approach within two inches of the cup and squared the match. Then he proceeded to win the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth, each in one stroke under par.

The fourteenth went to Travers, three to four, and the remaining holes until the finish were halved in par. They were both out in 40; Marston came back in 33, three strokes under par, the first nine holes played in the tournament, while Travers' medal was 76.

Ouimet and Standish had it nip and tuck in the morning round. At the turn Standish was one up. Standish won the eleventh and from then on they evened every hole until the eighteenth, which Ouimet won, three to four, making him one up at luncheon. The medal scores were: Ouimet 76, Standish 77.

In the afternoon Standish, after see-sawing, got a commanding lead and held it until the end came on the thirty-second green.

GARDNER HOLES IN 1.

Robert Gardner, in his match with Tom Sherman, duplicated Ned Allis' famous feat at Flora Moor in 1893. He made the seventh hole, 144 yards, in one—his opponent had a two. Not content with this feat our townsman made the fourteenth hole, 216 yards, in two. He finished four up at noon with a medal of 73 to Sherman's 77.

In the afternoon Sherman got a 72, one under par, but our morning lead was too much and Gardner won, two and 1.

Sawyer continued his fine playing with Gardner, winning by the comfortable margin of six to five. Today Gardner and Sawyer, the sole Chicago survivors, clash.

The closest match of the day was between Sherrill Sherman and Jack Stearns, which Sherman won in 37 holes.

Nelson Whitney defeated Ulmer, nine up and eight to play, and will meet Anderson today.

Howard Lee of Detroit, playing sensational golf in his match with Hamilton, won nine up and eight to play.

Jack Johnson Hero of Musical Comedy

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Jack Johnson, the erstwhile heavyweight champion, is now an actor.

The big black boxer today announced that he had given up the ring for good and would henceforth seek his limelight on the stage. He appears in a leading part of a musical comedy.

Johnson, who is surrounded by a cast of white actors, is the hero of the piece.

Thomas Issues a Defi.

Al Thomas, the New York lightweight, who got the decision over Walter Butler of Revere at the Atlas A. A. show Tuesday evening, is on a hunt for bigger game and today issued a challenge to all the New England lightweights. Jack Mann is looking after Thomas' interests.

Bonitwo Is First In.

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 2.—Bonitwo, sailed by H. Russell Smith, won the Gloucester Yacht Club race for 35-footers. The Mouse, W. J. Brown, Jr., led at the eastern and western marks, but was displaced on the beat back by both the Bonitwo and the Winsome, M. C. Wick.

Meddler Beats Her Field.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, Sept. 2.—Meddler II., sailed by M. Pratt, pinched the eighth race in the series for the Putnam Cup to her credit. The boat went around the course twice. Kiowa II., J. A. Jeffries, was second, and Palmetto, Thomas Taylor, Jr., third.

Devon Poloists Score.

HAMILTON, Sept. 2.—The Devon Polo Club of Philadelphia won from the Myopia second in the Myopia Hunt Club polo tournament, 8½ goals to 6½. Today Myopia first and third clash.

JUST AN EARFUL
By Tad

LEW BAILEY owns a box fight club in Philadelphia. Lew Bailey also owns great wads of diamonds. Lew Bailey believes in getting a dollar's worth for a dollar, and when he matches boxers for his club expects them to mingle out their money's worth. You know, the fans in the Unconscious City don't pay MUCH to see quarrelers—a seat in the gallery usually calls for a quarter.

Well, Lew usually slips the main eventer fifty bucks for his end—a princely fortune over there—but the prelim boys must be content with five bucks for their labors.

One night at the club Lew drew quite a crowd and he wanted it to be a big night, so that the customers would return at some future date. He called in the warriors for the first skirmish. Two skinny guys they were, and their drag was five bucks apiece.

They fought like whirlwinds for two rounds. They belted one another for keeps. They fought as though some king's ransom went to the winner.

In the third they slowed up. They feinted and stalled. Some one in the gallery asked if they owned together. Another yelled, "Stop that brutal affair." The kidders got Lew's nanny, and he scowled at the warriors. They continued to stall, and Lew scowled more. Finally while passing them, he barked, "Come on, come on, fight—a little sped. Whaddyethink I'm paying you for?"

One of the boxers lifted his head up for a moment, and, addressing himself to the diamond-bedecked Bailey, said:

"Whaddye want for five bucks, A CIVIL WAR?"

"Baron," he said, "whaddayathink about this? Now listen here is what I say:

"NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—An offer of $100,000 has been made to Ty Cobb to sign a three-year contract to play with the team that the Federal League will place in New York in 1916."

"Whaddaya think about it?" asked Ananias again.

"I think," remarked Baron Munchausen, "that you and I are bush leaguers."

Looking over pictures of women golfers on the sport page, we can understand why so few women take up golf.

Copy readers have a habit of running to figures. Having played the $100,000,000 bride to a standstill, they are putting a $100,000 outfielder over on us.

A DETECTIVE STORY.

Judge McCluke was sitting in the Hoosit street court hearing a case. The first witness was Detective Sergeant Umph.

"It was like this," said the sleuth, "I went into the saloon and ordered a drink."

"You got the drink?" asked the judge.

"Yes."

"And you paid for the drink?"

"And you paid for it with your own money?"

"Yes."

"And you are a member of the police department?"

"Yes."

"No, you ain't. No member of the police force ever buys a drink. The case is dismissed."

GOTHAM BOXING

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Demon statisticians have discovered that "Packey" McFarland has scored more knockouts in his career than Joe Gans, "the old master," during his reign as king of the lightweights. If "Packey" will demonstrate how the feat is done it will when he meets Mike Gibbons at the Brighton Beach motordrome one week from Saturday night it will please the "fans" who witness the contest immensely.

JACK DOUGHERTY is having his troubles. His leading middleweight, the new Al McCoy, has broken away and will attend to his business affairs himself. What with losing the present champion, Al McCoy, and the new one and the cold weather coming on it looks like Dougherty will have to hustle and get a new protege for himself.

BESIDES fighting "Buck" Crouse at Ebbets Field next week Johnny Howard, the Dayton boy who is scheduled to lock horns with Joe Ivannen at Springfield, Mass., Sept. 16. The bout will be ten rounds and will be the first staged there in four years.

TOMMY MADDEN, the Brooklyn middleweight, has been matched to box Sing to do a four-year bit for high way robbery. Madden's last fight was with Soldier Bartfield at Milwaukee.

THE fight between Les Darcy and Eddy McGoorty, which took place at Sidney, N. S. W., August 3, is characterized by Australian newspapers just reaching here as having been a gruelling contest. McGoorty was on the mat with his head in the ropes when the inspector ordered the battle stopped. The American was in a helpless condition and had to be carried to his corner.

"HARLEM TOMMY" MURPHY will try again. After promising his friends that he had quit the game for all time he now announces he will meet Matt Wells at the Clermont Rink in Brooklyn, Saturday night.

WILLIAMS PLAYS W. M. HALL IN BIG TOURNEY

TODAY'S BIG MATCHES.

Ward Dawson vs. C. J. Griffin. Karl Behr vs. Robert Leroy. H. Norris Williams, 2d, vs. W. M. Hall.
M. E. McLoughlin vs. L. Beekman. T. R. Pell vs. W. M. Washburn.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—As thus far there have not been any great upsets in the National Championship singles on the courts of the West Side Club, tennis devotees are anticipating some great commencing sport today.

H. Norris Williams, 2d, plays W. M. Hall, while Maurice E. McLoughlin has it out with L. Beekman. The Ward Dawson-C. J. Griffin set-to should also be a stubborn affair. T. R. Pell and W. M. Washburn also meet in a contest that is attracting lots of attention.

Thirty-two players from the four corners of the land survived the second round.

Williams defeated F. C. Inman of New York, 7-5, 9-7, and McLoughlin came through at the expense of Dean Mathey, the Princeton University crack, 6-1, 6-2, 8-6. Williams played much better tennis than McLoughlin.

McLoughlin was wild, netting and outing the ball far more frequently than has been customary for him to do in the past. He evinced a disposition to play deep court most of the time, and when he rushed to the net for killing smashes appeared to lose his sense of distances, for he drove the ball into the net almost as often as he did into his opponent's court.

George W. Wightman and J. S. Pfaffman of Boston advanced into the third bracket by easy victories, resulting from clever play.

Connie Mack Says McInnis Is Loyal

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Stuffy McInnis, the last of Connie Mack's "Mohicans," is still sewed up in an Athletic uniform, and has not jumped to the Federal League, officially stated this today, and said McInnis' at once from the line-up lately was because the first sacker was visiting his sick mother at Gloucester, Mass. Furthermore Mack said Stuffy "will never jump."

His home is in Kansas City, where his father has a law office.

To Invite Whitman to Mike-Packey Bout

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—W. C. Marshall, promoter of the bout between Mike Gibbons and Packey McFarland at the Brighton Motordrome on September 11th, will invite Governor Charles E. Whitman and his staff to be his guests at the ringside at the bout. Before his induction into office as Chief Executive of the State Mr. Whitman took a keen interest in boxing. He is still just as interested, but because of his duties and other reasons he has been unable to attend any boxing shows.

Fred Mitchell Can Coach.

Give a welcome to Fred Mitchell when he goes on the coaching lines at Braves Field today. Mitchell's rule off he is eligible to don his baseball togs and go back on his old job.

WORLD'S CYCLE CROWN GOES TO LINART

A whopper of a crowd saw Victor Linart of Belgium win the world's championship 100 kilometer motor-paced race at the Revere oval last night. The distance, equivalent to 62½ miles, was negotiated in 1 hour 27 minutes 43 4-5 seconds, time considered excellent.

George Wiley, one of the two American entrants, finished a bang-up second; in fact, was only beaten out by a bare yard. Wiley's spurt in the last four laps brought the big crowd to its feet, but Linart was ready for the Yankee flyer and succeeded in keeping a wheel's length in front. Both riders all but collapsed after crossing the finishing mark.

George Seres of France landed in third place. Clarence Carman, the second American starter, had all sorts of trouble. Otherwise he would have been right there at the finish, as at times during the grind he rode in better form than any of the other whirlwinds.

One-half mile amateur, handicap—Won by Fred McKenna (15 yds.); Revere, second; Allie Hook (scratch), Revere, third. Time—1:08 1-5. Ernest Bergin, Revere; Harold Farday (65 yds.), Orient Heights. Time—59 2-5.

Five-mile open, pacing—Won by Willie Purvis, Revere; second, Pat Logan, South Boston; third, Jimmie Connolly, Everett; fourth, Fred Herbert, Fall River. Last winner—Charles Turville. Time—12m. 18s.

Five-mile invitation, amateur—Won by Mike Ryan, Bridgeport; second, Jack Hill, Lynn; third, Walter Campbell, Everett; fourth, Jerry ——, Allentown. Won by Victor Linart, Antwerp, Belgium; second, George Wiley, Syracuse, N. Y.; third, Georges Seres, Paris, France; fourth, Georges Columbatti, Paris; fifth, Clarence Carman, Jamaica, N. Y. Time—1h. 27m. 43 sec.

"THE RABBITS' COLUMN" By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

YOUNG NEHF is proving himself to be a real pitching star. Considering that he is just out of the minors, his work is well nigh perfect. Arthur has given out hurling corps its needed strength. Without him it is doubtful if the rest of the staff would be working so well. If Neif wasn't around the veterans would have to work oftener and it is a question if they would be able to give such a good account of themselves.

AS I have said before, Tom Hughes is getting better every day. The more he pitches the better he looks. "Rescue Tom" has served us in more than one way this season and deserves a lot of credit for what he has done. Of all the major leaguers I do not think any of them have performed better than Tom as a relief pitcher. I guess he didn't look good against the Reds Tuesday.

THE grandstand at the new Braves Field seems to cut off the last rays of the sun much sooner than at Fenway Park. The last end of a game that starts late or the final innings of a double-header finds quite a bit shadow sweeping across the infield, and it is really darker to one on the field than it would appear from the grandstand. Just as the sun is disappearing over the roof of the grandstand it sure enough bothers "Big Charley" Schmidt, as he shades his eyes with his mitt to get an angle on what he is doing. Every, too, is bothered.

THE height of the third base pavilion also seems to shut off the sun pretty quickly, but this is harder on the visitors than on the Braves, because we are getting used to it.

* * *

MANAGER HERZOG of the Reds is anything but pleased with the outcome of the Benton case. He declares that he was made "the goat," but that it doesn't make any difference to him as the case is settled. "The politics of the game have to be played, I suppose," Charley remarked to me. "They made a monkey out of me in this case, after I had Benton under what I thought was authority from President Herrmann."

* * *

TODAY we begin a stretch of games that will call everything we have to win to play. The Dodgers are our opponents and as the second place issue is at stake, you can take it from me that this series is going to be hotly contested.

* * *

IF we can displace the Dodgers before we hit the Westward trails our path will be much easier. It is much harder to fight with two teams ahead of us than it is with one showing the way.

* * *

I THINK the coming Westward trip will decide the pennant winner. Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, the most likely contenders at this writing, all take the road, and the one that stands the fire best will be the logical choice to cop the flag.

* * *

I HEAR that "Chief" Meyers is going the way of his former team mate, "Rube" Marquard. I don't know how true this is, but the persons who have told me are well informed on such matters. They say that the purchasing of Catcher Schang by McGraw is a loophole for Meyers' release.

MCGRAW evidently sees that his present machine needs a lot of repairing before it can get going again. He needs new blood and he's getting it. Tyrus Cobb's leader is working along the lines now employed by "Connie" Mack.

I hereby announce a change of conditions in my tailoring. In line of progress I have given Boston the lowest-priced clothing in the country and the highest-priced cutter of custom clothing, Mr. J. C. Macdonald. I have made the aforesaid clothing in the city of Boston under Massachusetts conditions, and I am going still farther. I have just renovated my entire building. When the painters and carpenters get through I will have the finest tailoring establishment in the country, situated so that a man ordering a suit of clothes from Mitchell The Tailor can see his clothing in the process of manufacture, see the sanitary conditions under which his garments are made, and see what new, modern machinery can do towards making the word "efficiency" efficient. If in town Labor Day, whether you have traded with me before or not, come into my Boston store and meet the manager, Mr. G. Edward Nagle, and let him give you a cloth talk, let him show you woolens, get samples, ask him any question pertaining to my tailoring business, and he will be pleased to satisfy your curiosity.

Should a bachelor be allowed to hold public office?

The question brought a marked division of opinion before the Special Commission on Taxation at the State House.

Mrs. Charlotte Smith of Boston, for many years the foremost proponent of a $5 tax on bachelors, declared to the commission that an unmarried man should be precluded from the right to hold public office of any nature.

Whereupon Mrs. Etta C. Willard of Cambridge arose and insisted that only bachelors should occupy civic offices or engage in certain fields of professional endeavor.

"Statesmen, clergymen and dentists," she said, "are among the class of men who should not marry. Nothing should be done to compel men to marry. I hold that nine-tenths of the women are unfit for a good man to marry. I certainly would not want to raise my boy for a woman to destroy."

Mrs. Smith resented the imputation of her long-time friend. "Massachusetts women are just as good as the women of any other State in the Union," she said.

Among Mrs. Smith's statements to the commission were these:

"Sixty per cent. of the bachelors can afford to establish and maintain homes. The stigma of bachelor should be placed upon them.

"There is something wrong with society when a normal man doesn't marry. Society is degenerating into whiskey and dope fiends, sometimes caused by filthy city tenements.

"The bachelors who prey upon silly girls have no regard for moral, civil or ecclesiastical law.

"In my time I have broken 500 umbrellas over the backs of this kind of men.

"Society itself finally pays for the vice and crime."

She was asked by Frederick T. Fuller of the commission if she thought a $5 tax would serve as a deterrent upon the bachelors who prey upon women.

"Not a bit of it," she answered. "Five dollars is nothing to those men. It's no more than the bottle of wine they open at night. I want to put the tag on them."

Custom Tower Clock to Run in October

Residents of Boston will be disappointed in the announcement that the giant hands on the custom house tower clock will not indicate the correct time until the last of October. It will take until about that time to finish the work on the large pointers.

2 MORE BODIES ARE FOUND ON F-4

HONOLULU, Sept. 2.—Two more bodies have been found in the hull of submarine F-4. One of them is believed to be Alfred Ede, who was commander of the diver, or of Ensign Timothy A. Parker.

An officer's cap found near one of the bodies in the after part of the battery compartment led to the belief that one of the bodies was that of an officer. The insignia on the cap was gone.

A small notebook, with much of its contents illegible, was found, but there was nothing in it that would clear the mystery of the vessel's sinking. It contained records of the submarine's battery, according to Lieutenant Kirby B. Crittenden, a member of the naval board of inquiry.

Fresh air has been forced into the forward compartment of the submarine to facilitate work there, but this compartment has not yet been entered in the search for the bodies of the twenty-two men who went down in the vessel March 25, in Honolulu Bay.

Councilman James J. Storrow has challenged Councilman James A. Watson to a twenty-mile walking contest, as a means of settling a friendly controversy. Councilman Watson agreed to the endurance test for the sake of his convictions. The hiking match will probably be held September 11.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS.

Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in the last hour, but the majority of issues were stronger or above their low for the day. War orders averaged above yesterday's close. After sterling exchange advanced there was more selling and the sterling rate for sight bills fell to $4.57 for bid. Demand recovered to $4.58 later when cables were quoted at $4.59.

In regard to copper metal, extensive buying is looked for soon.

At 2:15 declines in New York included: Bethlehem 2½, Distillers ⅛, General Electric ⅝, Studebaker 1, Westinghouse ¼, Willys-Overland ¾, Utah Copper ⅝, Chino ⅜, Anaconda 1, N. Y. Central ⅜, New Haven ¼, Northern Pacific 1⅛, Reading ⅜, Southern Pacific ⅞, St. Paul ⅛, and Union Pacific ⅜. Among gains were: American Can ⅞, General Motors 2½, American Smelting ⅛, American Sugar ¾, Beet Sugar 2⅞, Crucible 5¼, N. Y. Air Brake 5, and Colorado Fuel 1½.

In Boston losses included Butte & Superior 1½, American Zinc 1, New Haven ¾ and United Fruit 2½. Most coppers were fractionally lower. Among gains were Atlantic Gulf preferred ⅞, and Calumet & Hecla 5. Among coppers to show small gains were Mohawk and Greene-Cananea.

SELLING BY FOREIGNERS.

New York opened on a little higher level with most of the activity and all the big gains in war orders. But if rails were very quiet they were firmer. There was a better tone to coppers. In half an hour realizing began and it is claimed foreigners were heavy sellers of American securities, including N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Erie, Anaconda and U. S. Steel. Sterling exchange immediately advanced. It opened with demand at $4.55 and cables at $4.59. The bid on demand soon touched $4.60, but it is doubted if much business was done at that figure. By some the advance is described as squeeze of shorts. It is said also that prominent banking interests allied to the allies are now supporting the market. As regards the proposed British loan, it is rumored London envoys are now on the way to this country, but nothing definite is known. A Boston banker is quoted as saying in regard to the best means of stopping the decline in exchange: "A big credit secured by British consols, French rentes and Russian government bonds will do the trick. They are as good collateral as one could wish for." Trading in stocks was very active in New York during the first hour, but slackened subsequently. Crucible Steel was very heavily dealt in and advanced more than 5 points. Buying by the public is said to have been resumed. Outsiders at present are chary of commitments except upon reactions. General Motors advanced 7½ during the first few minutes, but weakened with the list. Important action by its directorate is expected this month. The proportion of the Bank of England's reserve to liabilities is 24.15 per cent., compared with 24.13 last week. Its gold decreased about $9,235,000.

BOSTON MARKET QUIET.

The Boston market had a steady tone at the start and some coppers made gains early. But local trading was dull and uninteresting. Calumet & Hecla has declared a quarterly dividend of $15 a share and its disbursements this year, including the latest, total $35. This is its best showing in eight years. Europe's visible supply of copper is low, but it is said the exchange situation is all that is preventing foreign buying. Large interests are still asking 18 cents a pound for electrolytic. The spelter situation is termed uncertain. Price cutting is reported. Lead is fairly firm. In London today spot copper and futures were up 10s, and electrolytic and spelter were unchanged, with lead 7s. 6d. higher.

BURDETT COLLEGE

Stories of Achievement—No. 7

Alice H. Samson, Secretary to George W. Coleman, writes:

"It was wholly due to Burdett College training that I was able to gain my foothold in the business world. Upon graduation you placed me as stenographer with The Christian Endeavor World. It was not long before I became secretary to Mr. George W. Coleman of the W. H. McElwain Company of Boston. Mr. Coleman is also President of the Boston City Council, director of the Ford Hall Foundation and prominent in various other activities. Interested as I am in your continued success, it is gratifying to see that you are providing specialized training which must be most helpful in fitting secretaries for the complex problems of the times."

FALL TERM BEGINS TUESDAY, SEPT. 7

The Burdett College courses are: Business, Shorthand (Pitman, Gregg, and Chandler Departments), Combined, Secretarial, Applied Business and Management, Normal, Civil Service, and Finishing. New pupils admitted every Monday and advanced individually.

More About How to Dress

Negroes and Eskimos Were Blonds Two Hundred Thousand Years Ago, Says This Man

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

W. H. B., whose letter you shall read presently, wrote that men ought to dress in white, with low-necked collars and other things suited to a hot climate.

Then a Connecticut editor said that was a mistake. Men should dress in black, because black "radiates heat."

Here comes another letter in which W. H. B. answers the Yankee editor.

To this letter we should add:

Eat little meat in hot weather, but don't be a vegetarian.

Drink no spirits, whiskey or gin in hot weather, or at any other time; that doesn't mean that you HAVE GOT to be a teetotaler.

Eat little, not more than two-thirds as much as you think you need. Two-thirds of what we eat keeps us alive. The other third kills us eventually.

Exercise regularly and try to avoid irritation, knowing that in a thousand years from now nothing will matter except the good that you may have done to others.

Here is the very breezy letter from our correspondent:

My Dear Sir:

Shades of Mark Twain, who dressed in white the year around and advocated the color as the only one fit for humans!

The nigger emerges from the woodpile at last, lifted into the limelight by G. W., "managing editor of an important Connecticut newspaper." He wants us all to dress in black, so as to radiate heat instead of absorbing it, a la "those races which dwell in climes of intense heat, who have been painted black by nature for the purpose of cooling their bodies more efficiently."

How about the Eskimo, also painted near black? He isn't radiating heat so you can see it, is he? Sorry, but we must correct our Nutmeg friend from the teachings of cold science. The radiation stuff is a hypothesis only, with no evidence back of it, under it or around it. All the evidence bolsters up coloration as mere adaptation to environment—concealment from enemies, etc.

Charcot, Unna, Hammer, Bowles and others have demonstrated that the violet rays of light have an influence on the human skin. Sunburn, snowburn and snow-blindness are thus caused, inducing the use of yellow veils and painting the skin brown. Nature did this for man both in the Tropics and the Arctics.

Both Eskimo and Negro were blonds 200,000 years ago, which fairly expresses the duration of time essential to evolve nigrescence, by which the violet ray was sidestepped and the races made comparable in color with environment.

Does he wear black in hot countries? Not on your life! Neither do the Spanish nor any of the other northern races who have invaded and mastered hot countries. All dress in white.

I commend their example to Boston business men, who put on $250 worth of white clothes to play golf in the country, then don funereal garments to come into the city on billion-dollar trains in order to present a proper grouch to their clerks. Come, leave it to policemen and clericals to button up to the chin. Only they know why they do it, and the rest of us don't care why.

Sir Thomas Lipton a Man With a Conscience

America's "high financiers" are hereby recommended to become boating enthusiasts, not lackadaisically, but seriously. Boat racing, it appears, develops a peculiar sense of sportsmanship so rarely witnessed here that makes a director in a wrecked concern, for example, concern himself with the losses of innocent stockholders.

Sir Thomas Lipton, the perennial cup-lifter, on learning recently that Lipton Limited, the company of which he is chairman, was in the hole for some $1,250,000 through maladventurous financing and inventory juggling by certain heads of departments, voluntarily dug down in his jeans and presented an astonished assembly of stockholders with the amount needed. As chairman, Sir Thomas was in nowise responsible for the losses, and in nowise under obligation to assume them.

Throughout this land there are thousands of people with nothing except highly-embossed and engraved stock certificates to show for dollars entrusted to respected individuals who made the business management of the enterprise an incident to market operations. Deceived investors, unable to get back their wasted funds by law, may now cling to the hope that the plunderers will betake themselves to boat-racing. That sport apparently can stimulate a conscience.

The Wisdom of the Ages

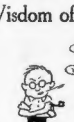
WHEN half distraught with vague alarm
About the future of the nation,
I always find a soothing charm
In scraps of useful information.
It cheers me wonderfully to know
The thrilling fact set forth below:

Tasmania imports practically all its hosiery.



I SKIM the evening paper o'er,
With headlines black and portent solemn;
I hurry through the news of war
And seek the information column,
And there I'm almost sure to find
A fact like this, to ease my mind:

Del and Dave Taugu of Gower, Mo., who are twins, dress alike, look alike and have the same mannerisms.

I NEVER can be quite content,
Though stern has been the day's endeavor,
Or feel my hours have been well spent
Or sleep with any peace whatever
Until I've satisfied my yearning
For these bright bits of modern learning:

It is said that no one can breathe at a greater height than seven miles from the earth.

Ireland's chief salt works are at Carrickfergus, County Antrim.

I DO not know whose hand indites
These gems of priceless information,
Or if he has to sit up nights
To toil upon their preparation
Or where he bags his mental plunder,
But I maintain that he's a wonder!

Why Some Girls Lack Admirers

Young Woman Who Seems Over-Anxious to Please Repels Men as Well as One Who Is Proud and Scornful of Attentions She Receives

By Dorothy Dix

I GET hundreds of letters from girls asking me what they can do to make themselves admired by men.

No one in the world is wise enough specifically to answer this question, and give any guaranteed rules for attracting the capricious masculine fancy, which, like the wind, bloweth where it listeth; and no one can tell when, or why, or where it listeth.

Why some girls attract the admiration of men and others are passed over; why some women are born to be belles, and others are foredoomed to be wall flowers, is one of the feminine mysteries that have puzzled every generation of women from Mother Eve down. But no woman has ever found out the answer to the riddle.

Some say that beauty is the magnet that draws men. But this is not invariably the case, for pretty girls are often left disconsolate, while homely girls have men flocking after them.

Money will occasionally buy a husband, but it will not buy a girl beaux if she has no other attractions than wealth.

Social position will not give her popularity, nor will fine clothes make her sought after, for we have all seen society girls sitting about at Summer resorts, solitary and alone, on trunksful of Paris clothes, while the girl who was a mere nobody, with only a few shabby frocks, had to divide her admirers up in squads and run them on schedule time.

Now I, any more than any other woman, cannot give a girl any reliable recipe for winning the admiration of men. But I can tell her why a great many girls are not admired.

In the first place, the girl who desires to be admired by men generally falls between two stools. She is overanxious, or else she is too inapproachable and coy. She either runs after men too much, or runs from them too fast, and both plans are fatal.

A girl should never forget that, in theory at least, man is the pursuer and woman the pursued. This is not always true, but the girl's success depends on keeping up the delusion and making the man think that he is chasing her down. Nothing disgusts a man more than for a woman to throw herself at his head. It gives him the feeling of being taken in and over-reached, and so, no matter how much a girl desires a man's attentions, she should go warily and stealthily about seeking them. Many a girl has broken off a promising love affair by calling up a man over the telephone during business hours and by her insistence on his coming to see her.

A man likes to feel that he is a free agent in such matters, and that he can come or not as he pleases, and nothing makes a girl more unpopular than to get the reputation of being a grabber who never lets a man go once she gets her clutches upon him.

On the other hand, a girl makes a blunder if she affects to disparage masculine society and to undervalue masculine attentions. Romances are full of misleading accounts of proud and scornful beauties who had lovers sighing at their feet, who were as humbly grateful for every kind word from the nifty lady as a hungry dog is for a bone.

This state of affairs does not obtain in real life, and the diffident damsel who thinks she renders herself irresistible by adopting a haughty demeanor and giving every man who approaches her the frozen face makes the mistake of her life. There are too many fences down in other directions for men to break their necks scaling turrets after inaccessible maidens.

Another reason that many girls are not admired by men is because they try to show off. They think they make themselves attractive by posing as learned, or cultured, or witty, when in reality there is nothing a man is so afraid of as a blue stocking, except a woman who is a wit. Many a poor girl who never reads anything except the six best sellers has blasted her chances in life by packing around a copy of Ibsen in her hands.

Many a maiden who really has ragtime taste in music has driven away the man she was trying to catch by rhapsodizing over "Parsifal." Many a woman, striving to be bright, and amuse a man, has cut her throat with her own wit, for no man can listen to a woman make sharp speeches about other people without wondering if he isn't going to be the next victim as soon as his back is turned.

And many a girl scares a prospective suitor away by bragging about her conquests, and telling what a heart-smasher she is. No man is going to add his name to the list of the Men-I-Turned-Down if he can help it.

Still another reason why many girls are not admired is because they are too hard to please and demand too much. When a man shows a woman any courtesy, the only return she can make for it is to appear to enjoy it. Many girls forget this. If a man sends them violets they wonder why he didn't send American Beauties. If he sends them candy, they always prefer some other kind than the ones he bestowed. If he takes them to the theatre, they remark on how much more agreeable the boxes are to sit in than the orchestra seats.

In a word, even the best is not good enough for them. Now a man doesn't pay a woman attention in order to win her gratitude, nor does he expect an illuminated resolution of thanks for every courtesy, but he does like to feel that his efforts to give her pleasure have been appreciated, and that he gave her a good time, for nothing is more mortifying than to feel that you have failed as a host.

It is not inspiring to invite a girl to have a sandwich and a glass of beer and have her expatiate on how much she likes terrapin and champagne, or to have her dilate when you take her out in your moderate priced car on how she adores French limousines, and it is small wonder that the girls who are guilty of these tactless blunders are left alone.

These are a few of the reasons why some girls are not admired, and there are thirty-seven other varieties of reasons, each equally cogent.

The Storeroom

By Jane McLean

IN Mem'ry's dusty attic,
Where now I never stray,
'Midst rafter-hanging cobwebs
I've stored my dreams away.
Who knows about the treasures
That lie forgotten there,
Where lurks the gay intruder,
Who fingers on the stair?
They are so few, my treasures—
A baby's half-worn shoe,
A battered silver locket,
A doll no longer new.
But should I stir the cobwebs
That help me to forget,
My heart would leap with mem'ries
And, knowing, feel regret.
And so in Mem'ry's attic—
Not in a fairer room—
I store my dearest treasures
To live in dust and gloom.
